•OFFICIAL NEWS

By D. WITT HANCOCK

American fighter planes and bombers aiding in the all-important battle for the Dutch East Indies have struck damaging blows at Japanese aircraft and invasion forces in southern Sumatra, the Allied southwest Pacific command announced today.

Indies defense forces, meanwhile, brought down five enemy bombers out of a force of 21 planes which attacked the vital United Nations naval base at Soerabaja in two waves this morning.

The news agency Aneta reported the raid did little damage to the base and caused only a few casualties. The alarm lasted an hour and three-quarters.

A squadron of U. S. fighters was credited with bringing down four Japanese planes without loss to themselves in an attack on an enemy-held airdrome, presumably in the area around the Dutch-destroyed oil center of Palembang, which lies only 270 miles northwest of the Indies capital of Batavia.

TRANSPORT SUNK

Dutch bombers, which the American planes apparently were protecting, shot down two more Japanese, the communique reported.

In raids on Japanese shipping an American-Dutch bomber force was said to have sunk one large transport, scored hits on two others and rained destruction on a fleet of troop-laden barges.

This latter report appeared to amplify yesterday's communique from the Dutch high command, in which Dutch bombers were credited with one direct hit on a transport and a probable hit and a near miss on another.

While a Japanese assault on the stronghold island of Java was expected by its 40,000,000 inhabitants momentarily, an enemy bombing plane struck far to the east of this Dutch East Indies nerve center in a raid on Koepang, chief city of the Dutch portion of the island of Timor.

FIGHT ON IN BORNEO

Timor lies slightly north and west of the important Australian base of Darwin. Three persons were slightly injured in the latest raid, which followed reports yesterday of attacks on shipping in the Timor sea by a large number of enemy planes.

Today's communique from the Indies high command, issued through the news agency Aneta, announced that defense forces still were offering resistance to the Japanese invaders in unspecified sections of Borneo, but acknowledged that on the Minahassa peninsula in northeast Celebes "fighting has almost come to an end."

SURVIVED TORPEDOING—Safe at Norfolk, Va., today after surviving the torpedoing of the Brazilian steamer Buarque, sunk off the Virginia coast by a sub, are (l. to r.) Marie Omana and her mother, Gracelia Omana of Caracas, Ven., Mrs. Adrian Ferriera and her son, Frederick of Newark, N. J., and Walter F. Shivers, Jr., of New York. They were among 83 survivors landed.

Start of the long-expected assault in force against Gen. Douglas MacArthur's lines in Bataan was indicated today in a War Department communique.

Increased enemy air activity, much heavier Japanese artillery fire and the landing of Japanese reinforcements at Olongapo in Subic bay just north of Bataan peninsula were revealed.

At the refugee camp at Cabcaben, the department reported yesterday, a Japanese bombing attack killed 18 women and 5 children and wounded 13 women and 9 children.

Department officials said there was no report of casualties in the second bombing of the camp.

The department also reported four-motored bombers, attacking Japanese ships off Bangka island between Sumatra and Borneo, scored direct hits on two enemy transports, one large and one small, both of which were believed sunk.

Two enemy barges were destroyed, with no damage to any of the American planes.

RANGOON PERIL GRAVE; SIAM INVADED

Rangoon, Burma
Feb. 18 (AP)

Chiang Kai-Shek's veterans have crossed the mountainous Thailand (Siam) frontier in the north from Burma, it was reported here today, but on the southern front heavy fighting raged with the gravity of the situation hourly becoming manifest.

The Japanese, following hand-to-hand combat with Indian troops, forced a night crossing of the shallow Bilin river, a communique said today, and the British front was vaguely described as somewhere between the marshy Sittang and Salween rivers.

The Sittang river, at the tip of Martaban Gulf is only about 20 miles from the railway which connects with China's Burma road, or about 30 miles nearer than the parallel Bilin.

The possibility was increasing almost hourly that the Japanese would attempt to use their sea and air power to make chance landings of troops on the Rangoon delta in a direct assault upon this port which supplies the Burma road.

The communique said "a report, as yet unconfirmed, says farther north, Chinese troops have crossed the Thai frontier and are fighting toward Chiengmai, termi-

Brazil Hints Reprisals in Ship Sinking

Rio De Janeiro
Feb. 18 (AP)

•Official Dispatch

Government officials said today Brazil was taking steps "to safeguard her national interests" as a result of the German submarine sinking of the Brazilian steamer Buarque off the United States east coast, and recalled that such sinkings during the World War brought Brazil into the conflict against Germany.

These sources expressed the personal belief, however, that at least for the present Brazil would not declare war on the Axis.

One official said the government's action would depend partly on whether Chile broke relations with the Axis, thus making a solid South

Lake Finds Blackout Equals London's Best

By AUSTEN LAKE

Downtown Boston took its first brief blackout in a mingled mood by curious onlookers and grim participants during a drill which will be oft-repeated and perhaps more realistically as time rolls on. The spirit was nine-tenths solemn, one-tenth garrulous and wholly co-operative.

Boston Evening American Photo

BLACKOUT BABY—At 10:01 p. m., one minute after Boston's 20-minute blackout began last night, Leona Jean Ely entered the world in a specially prepared room at Chelsea Naval Hospital . . . Boston's first blackout baby. Room was equipped with lamp that switched to a battery when regular current was shut off. Leona's mother is Mrs. Leo Ely of Jamaica Plain, her pop's a shipfitter.

As a blackout it was as "inky" as anything this writer saw in London during the blitz period of last year. Only the luminescence of a starry sky prevented Boston from being a "deader city" than I ever saw in nocturnal London.

It had been planned as a short, easy and not too exacting a test. The city had been carefully forewarned and coached as to expected action. Thus, eager to please, many shopkeepers had cautiously blinked out their lights before the appointed 10 o'clock hour. Many an advertising display had been kept dark. So there was no abrupt blot-out from the full incandescent blaze of downtown Boston as we know it, to a blank, barrel-bottom obscurity—no sudden "pffuutt" and eye-swimming oblivion.

The street lights shone on to the last zero second, like strings of incandescent beads. Some of the advertising signs kept bravely alight till the first, yelping "Yeeoww, yeeoww" of the alerts, which, in the abnormal silence of the traffic-thinned street were plainly audible over the city.

But between 9 and 10 p. m. there was a preliminary period of dwindling blinks—a twilit interval—so that when the total blackout came there were no blind spots swimming on the retina of the eye like luminous, hardboiled eggs. The transition was that gradual.

SIRENS PIERCE AIR

Our sirens with their nervous, upward, jerking inflection were more raucous and imperative than those of London, though certainly no harder on the ears under actual bombing conditions. Sirens are not expected to sound sweet melodies.

Boston's alerts began almost as a concerted unit which, being more widely separated than those of London, may have been an illusion to the ear. But London's began as a succession of far away screams in an up-and-down half octave of twin-tones, starting thinly at the edges of the city and progressing to a city-wide crescendo as the in-town signals picked up the cry like a pack of beagle hounds.

The turnout of Boston wardens and special police was especially impressive. Long before the zero hour an amazing number were at

REGIONAL BLACKOUT TEST NOW PROPOSED

With Boston tested, approved and applauded, Gov. Saltonstall and enthusiastic officials today mapped a big-scale blackout for the entire metropolitan area—from Brockton to Concord, from Marlboro to Lynn.

For while the Boston blackout matched London's finest, it taught one mighty important lesson—regional blackouts are the thing.

Boston's 800,000 residents transformed their city into tomb-like darkness but from the air its boundaries were as plain as if the sun were shining. The bright lights of every surrounding community rimmed the black area that is Boston into a perfect target.

There were many who sensed it at once but it was Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York, the doughty little civilian defense expert, who was first to speak of its dangers.

"This blackout is extraordinary beyond all reasonable expectations," LaGuardia declared.

TEACHES LESSON

Then, pointing to the lights of Cambridge, Revere, Winthrop, Everett and other communities, he added:

"What a frame they make. We learned a very important lesson; one that will benefit every other big American city. To be effective entire regions must be blacked out."

Gov. Saltonstall was another who, while elated at the all-out co-operation of citizens, saw dangers.

"It is clear to me that we must have a test for the whole Metropolitan area and arrange a blackout system that covers our entire defense industrial district," the governor said.

How soon this major blackout will come has not been decided, but it will be soon.

MORE TESTS SUGGESTED

"BUY BONDS FOR BOMBERS"

CATHOLIC FORESTERS BUY $100,000 BONDS; TOTAL IS $3,240,726

Complete endorsement—and a pledge of $100,000—came today to the BUY BOMBERS WITH BONDS campaign headquarters

JOS. FORRESTER, WM. HARRISON, JR., FRANCIS HANNIGAN
Foresters Pledge $100,000 to Bomber Fund of the Boston Daily Record-American, Sunday Advertiser from the Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters' high standing committee.

The Foresters' pledge brought the total of bomber allocations to a new high of $3,240,726, with nearly three more weeks to go in the four-week campaign conducted by these newspapers in co-operation with the U. S. Treasury Department.

The approval of Joseph J. Forrester, high secretary-treasurer, and Francis L. Hannigan, chairman of the High Court trustees; William H. Harrison, Jr., high chief ranger, sent the following letter of endorsement to the BUY-A-BOMBER EDITOR at 5 Winthrop sq., Boston:

HAS 40,000 MEMBERS

"The Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters, composed of 40,000 men and women throughout the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, heartily endorses your campaign, 'Buy Bonds for Bombers.'

"The High Court trustees of our organization have purchased $70,000 worth of United States defense bonds. Many of our subordinate courts and individual members have bought additional bonds and stamps to bring the total close to $100,000.

"The M. C. O. F. Civilian Defense Committee, headed by Past High Chief Ranger William J. Barry, is urging Foresters to purchase as many Defense Bonds as they possibly can as the surest way of ousting the dictators and securing eventual victory for the democracies of the world.

"Once again members of the Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters are showing in a practical way their patriotism and appreciation of the democratic way of life."

Thus the Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters are one more

MAYRIS CHANEY'S OFFER TO RESIGN IS ACCEPTED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP)—The Office of Civilian Defense announced today it had accepted the offer of Mayris Chaney, blonde dancer-protegee of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, to resign her $4600 OCD job if it felt "the best interests of the physical fitness program" can thereby be served.

Miss Chaney, whose appointment in charge of children's activities in the OCD physical fitness division brought criticism from Congress to eliminate "frills" from OCD, made her offer in a letter to James M. Landis, director of OCD.

The physical fitness division is part of the community and volunteer participation section over which Mrs. Roosevelt, as assistant civilian defense director, presides.

"Because I wish no further altercation which might cause disunity and delay and for the same reason which prompted me to take this work originally—my desire for a strong and free America—I wish to step aside if it is your will," her letter said.

"If you feel that the best interests of the physical fitness program—and the best interests of the U. S. of America—can be served by my resignation, then I will step aside gladly, effective at your convenience."

Miss Chaney declared that "many seem to think the physical fitness program was designed to introduce fan dancing among innocent tots." She added:

"While I am not familiar with fan dancing, I do not agree that such frivolity has any place in a children's program in normal times, let alone in times of stress."

The former Philadelphia night club dancer said it is "of no importance whether this program is carried out by me or someone else."

"The main objective," she added, "it to get the job done so that children might be spared unnecessary suffering and possible loss of reason or even life.

"It is the duty of every American citizen to see that our helpless ones are provided for in times of emergency and guarded against the terror and panic that usually results from bombings and other terrible acts of war."

Japs to Ban English In Filipino Schools

TOKYO (From Japanese Broadcasts), Feb. 18 (AP)—A Domei dispatch from Manila said today the complete revision of Philippine school books has been started, and reported that the Japanese commander on Luzon had recommended the gradual elimination of English from the schools.

Wider use of Tagalog, Philippine native tongue, was envisioned. Domei said eventual abolition of English would "eliminate the blind dependence upon Anglo-American culture and civilization" and further the Filipino's consciousness that he is an Oriental.

Raid Warden Assailant Found Guilty

On a charge that he struck an air raid warden when he was told to seek shelter during Boston's blackout test, Frank Yashatinsky, 31, of Baron st., West End, was found guilty today of assault and battery and ordered held in $500 bail for disposition of his case.

Max Schevik, 57, of Elmhurst st., Dorchester, the warden, told Judge Daniel J. Gillen in municipal court that he approached Yashtinsky on Leverett st., West End, where the latter is employed as a baker.

"He was standing in the middle of the street after the lights had been extinguished," Schevik said. "I told him to move into the doorway. I spoke politely, as I had been instructed."

Yashtinsky allegedly retorted:

"Who in hell are you?"

Schevik testified he flashed his light on his badge and told the baker he was a warden. He said Yashtinsky answered "so am I" and struck him.

Schevik was knocked to the street by the blow which loosened several of his teeth.

Special Officer Walter Nickerson of the West End station, who arrested Yashtinsky on a warrant, testified the baker told him he was a warden but he was not on duty last night.

32 BILLION WAR BILL GOES TO SENATE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP)—A record-smashing $32,070,901,900 war appropriation moved to the Senate today with a 371 to 0 endorsement by the House under committee warning that supplies must be ready against a supreme Axis offensive this spring.

House appropriations committee members, introducing the measure yesterday, urged quick action on the bill, which includes outlays for transportation and other immediate items as well as for long range production. The House passed the bill with only four hours debate.

With similar unanimity yesterday, the Senate passed by a voice vote a $163,806,854 deficiency measure, including $100,000,000 for civilian defense against air raids, and returned it to the House for action on minor amendments.

In that bill the Senate left intact House restrictions against use of any part of the protection fund for "fan dancing, street shows or other public entertainment" or for the Treasury's $80,000 Donald Duck income tax cartoon film.

Fuel Oil Deliveries To Homes Curtailed

With oil supplies going fast and liable to be used up by March 1 unless drastic curtailment of consumption is enforced, New England dealers today started limiting all deliveries to homes and factories, while plans were again considered for gasoline station blackouts.

On orders from Washington, fuel oil concerns announced that refills will be delivered only when tanks are down to one-fifth of capacity. A limit of three-fourths of tank capacity will be placed on deliveries.

These restrictions were outlined by Clyde G. Morrill, executive director of the Independent Oil Men's Ass'n at an emergency conference called by Gov. Saltonstall to consider the double shortage of oil and gasoline due to tanker sinkings.

LOWER THERMOSTATS

J. C. Richdale, director of the fuel oil conservation division of the Massachusetts committee on public safety, joined with the governor in an appeal to householders to lower their thermostats and shut off spare rooms, or many homes in the state will be heatless before April 1.

Richdale summed up the seriousness of the situation by saying:

"I would hate to think what would happen Boston alone if we ran out of oil. I would rather have Hitler drop a few bombs on us than to run out of oil for even a week."

Richdale said the nation's oil industry is formulating a publicity campaign to obtain public co-operation in the emergency. He said all companies would pool their interests in the drive which will use newspapers, radio and public platforms to reach oil users.

Over 100 speakers of the Massachusetts committee on public safety were instructed by J. Wells Farley, executive director, to stress the oil situation in their talks.

Farley said it "takes precedence over all other matters and speed in obtaining co-operation is essential."

A shortage of coal also menaces New England, according to Richard L. Bowditch, director of the solid fuel division of the State Public Safety Committee.

Gov. Saltonstall was asked at a conference to use his emergency wartime powers to control immediate nightly and Sunday 7 o'clock curfew closing of gasoline stations throughout the State.

GREAT CARE NEEDED

The Governor said the situation can be handled if users are careful.

"We don't want to ration fuel oil if we possibly can help it," he said.

Officials at the conference said those who waste fuel are endangering national defense.

Farley said the shortage is no figment of the imagination, adding:

"If we don't get fuel, production will of necessity fall off."

Director Bowditch said coal reserves are dangerously low and nobody knows how many colliers will fall victims to submarines.

Richdale said reduced consumption must be begun this minute, not tomorrow or next week.

"Until recently all petroleum was brought into New England by water," he explained. "We lost tankers when they were transferred to Great Britain.

"We have now lost tanker after tanker to the submarines and we don't know how many more we will lose. As of Feb. 17 we have not enough oil on hand to carry us through to March 1. If we were to be without oil industry would stop, transportation would stop and business would come to a standstill."

F. L. Higginson, director of services and supplies, said every electric light unnecessarily left burning uses up fuel oil at the power station.

Late School Opening Plan Draws Protest

Branding the plan as "ridiculous and unwarranted," City Councilor Joseph Russo today demanded that School Supt. Arthur L. Gould immediately rescind his order delaying the opening of five high schools from 9 until 10 a. m.

Gould announced the plan yesterday, to take effect March 2, as an "experiment" to relieve early morning pressure on the Boston Elevated. The five schools affected, having a total enrollment of 6000, are English High, Boys' Latin, Girls' Latin, Commerce and Girls' High.

"It is obvious this was a hasty decision, made without forethought or serious consideration," Russo said.

"With the opening of schools advanced, the closing will come about the time thousands of defense workers get through for the day, and the result will be that school children will take the seats and let the defense workers stand up."

Under Gould's plan, the five schools affected would close at 3:30 p. m., instead of at 2:30, as at present.

Russo said nothing would be accomplished by the change, "except to upset the household routine of mothers."

Gould's plan was passed on by the school committee. The official announcement said the plan would be tried out until the April vacation.

Headmasters will study the effects of the change, "particularly in the students who now work after school."

There are so many delicious

LENTEN MEALS!

COMMENCING THIS WEEK the beginning of the Lenten season, we are offering the thousands of customers who daily pass through our doors a series of feature Lenten specials which to me seem tastier and more attractive than any I have come across in a long, long while.

● And wishing to give full credit, where credit is due, I want to hand the palm to those clever folks in our diet and experimental kitchens who evidently have dipped deeply into their bag of restaurant lore, and produced a list of items for the season which will appeal to men and women alike.

● For meatless days, of course, there are the fish items . . . fried, broiled, and baked, together with scallops and clams, the delicious chowders, and the fishcake specials.

● Next on the list is baked macaroni and cheese . . . sometimes served just with rolls and butter, or perhaps the early spring combinations which include string beans and buttered carrots. This last, by the way, is a particular favorite of mine.

● Then there are the daily vegetable dinners. At noon people ask for four vegetables and rolls, and at night for three vegetables and a baked potato, and rolls. For but twenty-five cents either one of these certainly is a bargain.

● And I could go on and on. Salads, naturally, are an important item during Lent . . . fish, fruit, and vegetable salads. So, too, the sandwiches of many kinds and the rich, hearty soups we serve every day.

● There are so many other good things here it fairly makes my mouth water. I guess I'll clear off my desk and go out to lunch!

DUKE TELLS HESS DETAILS TO WIN SUIT

LONDON, Feb. 18 (AP)—Libel actions brought by the Duke of Hamilton, premier Scottish peer, against the writers of a pamphlet on the flight of Rudolf Hess to England last May, were settled in court today when the authors apologized and agreed to pay the court costs.

Hamilton, an RAF officer on whose estate Hitler's aide parachuted was one of the first to see Hess.

Valentine Holmes, attorney for Hamilton, told for the first time some details of the Hess landing.

Hamilton was on duty in an RAF station when the Hess plane was sighted off Northumberland. When the plane crashed Hamilton had left for home, but was recalled when "informed the pilot had given his name as Alfred Horn and had told police he was on a special mission to see the duke," the attorney related.

The duke, his counsel continued, "had never seen the prisoner before, but when the prisoner learned he was the Duke of Hamilton he asked to speak with him alone . . . the prisoner said 'I do not know if you recognize me but I am Rudolf Hess' and he made statements which the duke considered should be verified."

Hamilton later was summoned by Prime Minister Churchill to make a personal report.

Store Looting Ring Smashed

Smashing of a ring, which, police said, intercepted thousands of dollars in merchandise destined for department stores, was claimed today with the arraignment of a Roxbury father and daughter on charges of receiving stolen goods.

Charles F. Ehnons, 61, and Mrs. Gertrude Raffa, 32, both of Nonquit st., were described as mere "cogs" in the scheme.

The pair was arraigned before Judge Frankliand W. L. Miles in Roxbury court on charges of receiving $149 of stolen goods. Ehnons pleaded guilty, but his daughter pleaded not guilty. Hearing was set for Feb. 25.

Police said the ring has been in operation for more than a year. They charge that shipments of merchandise, intended for Boston stores, were broken into and goods removed.

Hose-Run Battle Won by Women In Pepperell

PEPPERELL, Feb. 18 (AP)—The battle of hose run has ended with the women of Pepperell victors.

The Pepperell women's club pushed through town meeting an appropriation for $1600 for 600 chairs for town hall on the ground that the edges of seats now in use snagged stockings and made them run.

The clinching argument was made by Mrs. Irene Leary, town clerk, who pointed scornfully to chairs that were supported by crates and wooden horses.

Magic Water Does Internal Surgery

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP)—Science has a new, magic drink of water which does an internal surgical operation, complete, bloodless, painless, harmless.

The drink is ordinary water containing radio-active iodine. The taste is natural. The operation is done by the rays of the iodine, on the thyroid glands of sick humans and of experimental animals.

A survey today showed this iodine in use both at the University of California and at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where it is produced by the cyclotrons of the respective institutions. Radio-active iodine is not known in nature. It must be made artificially. It emits rays like those of radium.

When a person takes a drink of water containing this kind of iodine scientists can tell exactly where it goes by listening to the chattering sound made by the rays in an electrical pick-up. It goes almost entirely to the thyroid gland, 5000 times as much concentrating there as in any other tissue.

Thus concentrated, these rays do exactly the same sort of surgical removal as radium or X-rays. They can dissolve part or all of a thyroid gland.

200 CARS JACKED UP

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18 (AP)—The board of supervisors has ordered nearly 200 of the county's fleet of 500 cars jacked up, possibly for the duration, so tires will be available for automobiles considered essential to the war effort.

Soldiers In South Just Won't Wear U. S. Issue Longies

ATLANTA, Feb. 18 (AP)—Soldiers stationed in the South just won't wear long underwear, the Fourth Corps area quartermaster staff has discovered.

Lieut-Col. William F. Riter said the quartermaster staff found that winter underwear, issued to soldiers last fall, had never been worn.

And those soldiers, who were asked to don the "panhandles," as they are called, cut off the arms and legs.

But the Army intends to keep on issuing long underwear. "Sooner or later," said Riter, "the soldiers will hit a climate where they will find the thick garments mighty welcome."

ALL HUB AREA IN NEXT BLACKOUT

tion was "stimulating" a regional blackout.

"We are anxious now to have a blackout of Region 5,—41 cities and towns in the Boston area—within a very short time," Farley said.

"We aren't ordering it, however, but are merely stimulating it. The various cities and towns should try it separately first and then the entire region can stage a test."

In spite of the need of widespread outside co-operation there was nothing that could be taken away from the citizens of Boston. They took a wartime test in stride and with such determination it might well have been the real thing.

The record was one the city always can be proud of.

ONLY PLANTS LIGHTED

For the 20-minute period from 10 to 10:20, hardly a light was showing in the city's 46-square-mile area except for those in defense plants exempted from the test.

Not a law violation of any kind was reported to police.

Not a fatality occurred, and there was but one accident.

Not a fire alarm was sounded from a box. Fears that criminals would operate and that crackpots would seize upon the blackout for pranks and practical jokes all were unfounded.

Everyone sensed that this is war—an uncompromising war that will likely hit Boston if its bombs of death ever reach America's shores.

Everyone co-operated. From an observation plane high above the city, reporters and officials saw only one automobile moving. And later there was an explanation for this when police reported they had made a run to City Hospital through blackened streets with William Hennessey, 42, of Staniford st., West End, who suffered head lacerations just a few minutes before the 10 p. m. deadline.

The single accident during the blackout period occurred in the South End, where Andrew Quinn, 42, of Albion st., suffered a brain concussion when he fell down stairs in his home.

OFFICIALS PLEASED

Among those who showered praises on Bostonians for the efficiency with which blazing city lights were doused so magically were Gov. Saltonstall, Mayor Tobin, Neal Herrick, Greater Boston blackout deputy; Michael T. Kelleher, regional director; and John J. Walsh, director of the Boston public safety committee.

Perhaps most indicative of the co-operation showns was the number of telephone calls handled during the blackout period. Officials of the telephone company had warned all persons to refrain from phoning unless they were defense officials.

During that 20 minutes, the calls dropped to 14 per cent of normal and immediately after the test was over the calls jumped to a rate of 152 per cent.

Lake Finds Blackout Equals London's Best

their appointed posts, each with his identifying arm band, nickled badge and hoe-handle club swinging from a leather thong—an ample army of mufti-clad, capable-looking men who, to their great credit, performed their jobs with serious tact and no over-zealous authority. During the early evening passers-by eyed them quizzically but with respect, being fully conscious that these ulstered and felt-hatted men represented, for the moment, the impulse of the law as much as any uniformed officer.

They were in a force that I had never seen equalled in London, where the RAP men and their equally capable RAF-jills mostly patrol the back streets or stand at their lookout posts on the top of buildings. But this, last night, was a full dress turnout and the Boston men were all out.

There were no arrests, no authentic police calls, no fires and no disorder throughout the city during the 20 blot-out minutes. Some Brighton boys had held a pre-blackout potato roast and left some logs alight. A police prowl car had a false summons. But that was all.

This observer started his tour at Boston's equivalent of London's Piccadilly Circus, the dogleg section where Bowdoin turns into Scollay sq. There, in the pre-zero hour, neon and Cooper Hewitt lights glared over gaudy window wares. Thirst parlors were filled with men leaning over a thimble and a crust, tattoo studios displayed their skin-arts, clean-limbed sailors ogled equally trim-limbed girls, theaters blazed the latest screen thriller, taxis shuttled back and forth.

By contrast with dimmer lit Tremont st., the blackout seemed blackest there, as the last blink of the street lights, prompt on the dot of the first "yeeeoow," gave the area the look of an inside of a coal pocket.

There was no concerted rush, merely an almost imperceptible folding back of the sidewalk traffic to the shadows of buildings.

LIKE STRICKEN AREA

Scollay sq. lay like a shadowed crater, weirdly without motion or sound, as though some vast, occult paralysis had descended to render Boston's old carnival spot an insensate, immobile and stricken area.

Along Tremont st., past King's Chapel and the Parker House, around the door of which a regiment of wardens and guest-watchers were grouped, past the Old Granary burial grounds and its horseshoe background of office buildings, past the high silhouetted spire of the old Park Street Church and the open, tree fringed spacee of the Common, the city seemed to hold its breath.

Faint light grinned from the openings of the Park st. underground, where belated home-goers waited for cars that waited, too.

The subway platforms were NOT crowded with sleeping thousands; children beside mothers, lone folk of all ages and conditions, lying in windrows near the wall sides of the platforms—on steps, in ells and crannies, wherever there is body space, as in London.

Thus Boston in its first test did not experience that strange city-wide psychosis which London neurologists have come to call, "blackoutitis." For, indeed, one will never know the full overpowering meaning of loneliness until he has walked around habitually in lightless streets and their all-enveloping darkness in which people cease to be individuals and become shapes, vague, formless and impersonal.

SPANS DARKENED

Reports from the American's photographers who flew over Boston in observation planes, followed some of the time by a single accusing finger of a searchlight, was that the city below resembled the vague, cross-hatching of streets and the reflected glint of the Charles—nothing more.

The necklace fringe of lights along the Esplanades was out. The hedge of bulbs across the bridges was black. But the Charles shimmered in the starlight like a great mirror, just as the Thames had shone as a curving, incandescent ribbon and oriented the way for the Nazi buzzards.

Today in the Civilian Defense headquarters tabulators are busy auditing the record of Boston's first blackout—such topics as the range at which each of its 15 regional sirens could be heard, any disregard of light orders (there were instances of neglect here and there in residential districts), the roll call of wardens and police who answered the summons, the efficiency of the report stations in transmitting messages, the number of medical aides who appeared at first aid stations. All that and much more.

There will be corrections! The sirens may need to be amplified by added others in the intermediate areas. The wardens may need to be posted more thinly for uniform distribution. The public should be encouraged to take more protective coverage than the edge of buildings and doorfronts.

But, as an inaugural without benefit of rehearsal, Boston passed its first blackout test with a cum laude degree. There was no unwarranted paralysis or delay in the pickup of normal night life after the "clear" had sounded.

Within a minute the street lamps and many of the business lights were shining. Within five minutes traffic was responding to the traffic blinkers and street strollers were resuming their parades. Thankfully, all that was missing was the bombs.

Like Spilled Ink Over City, Says Reporter

By JOSEPH PURCELL

From the air—nearly a mile high—Boston blacked out last night as completely as though someone had tipped a giant inkwell over the city, so successfully obscuring everything below that a veteran American Airlines pilot remarked:

"I've flown over the city perhaps a thousand times but for the first time I was confused. I was unable at times to pick out any given point in the city and positively identify it."

Thus is summed up the success of Boston's first practice blackout.

State and city defense officials and newspapermen who for more than a half hour circled the city—before, during and after the test—were admittedly a bewildered but fascinated lot.

As the plane zoomed over the ink-blot that a few minutes before was brilliantly illuminated Boston, no two persons in the plane could agree on the identity of a specific point in the pitch blackness 4000 feet below.

SPOT PIN-POINTS

Occasionally tiny pin-points of light would appear here and there but they failed to endanger the success of the test.

Neal Herrick, Greater Boston Deputy Blackout Officer, said the few lights that flickered at times would tend to confuse enemy fliers rather than aid them.

Promptly at 10 p. m. the city's multi-colored lights criss-crossing for miles in a brilliant panorama, suddenly began blotting out. In hardly more than a minute everything was pitch dark, the blackness accentuated by the brilliant illumination of neighboring cities and towns.

Shortly after the ghostly plunge into darkness was over—even the cabin light of the plane was extinguished—the hit and miss game of guesswork among the passengers to identify sections of the city began.

Dorchester was mistaken for the South End, the South End was mistaken for the North. One passenger identified a beacon in Millis for a light atop the Custom House.

HOSTESS PUZZLED

At times passengers were unable to distinguish between land and water—lights on craft in the harbor and rivers went out with those of the city—and a seasoned airline hostess admitted she was able to draw the distinction only because of a "flying sense."

"It must be a success," she said, "I don't know where I'm at."

At 10:20 the city leaped into almost blinding illumination and the landmarks were recognized again. In the same manner that the city went dark, it emerged into light, one section following another in a matter of seconds.

With the blackout over and the plane landed, defense officials and newspapermen agreed the test had been a success.

Junior Army Enlists Patriotic Shut-ins

The Junior Victory Army of New England is open to all boys and girls who are sick at home or in hospitals, and those who have physical handicaps or otherwise are unable to attend school or play outdoor games.

This reassurance is a reply to a large number of letters received from parents and children at Junior Army headquarters from parents and children. The letter writers ask if physical handicaps or illness prevent enrollment.

The answer is "No." These children may join and in enrolling will receive the glad hand of comradeship from the other 12,000 members already in this big youth army and from its sponsors.

Patriotism and the desire to serve their country and community, and being within the age limits of from 10 to 18, are the only qualifications necessary.

Here's a tip, Recruits of the Junior Army. Get your scrapbooks, your scissors and your paste. Remember the series of First Aid Lessons start next Monday. You'll want to clip all the lessons and keep them for reference.

In the meantime the insignia of the Air Raid Precautions services will be printed in the Junior Army news. They'll include the insignia of the Air Raid Warden, the Auxiliary Police, the Fire Watcher, the Demolition Crew and others. Watch for them, clip them out, memorize them, and you'll be helping defense because some day knowledge of these insignia may be of tremendous importance to you and to your elders.

The first set will appear in tomorrow's Daily Record and the second set in tomorrow's Evening American.

Under leadership of William A. MacCormick, executive secretary, Y Boy Associates, new crafts, courier and first aid classes are being organized at Y. M. C. A. branches.

The craft class will be organized at 4 o'clock today to make home made games in shop work at the Boys' Clubrooms, 821 Washington st., Dorchester, under direction of Don Robblee, assisted by Ralph Townsend.

A courier class will be held between 4 and 4:30 p. m. tomorrow at the same place under direction of Edward Keazirian. He, too, will be assisted by Townsend.

The first aid class will be opened at the same time tomorrow at the clubrooms at 770 Washington st., Dorchester, under direction of Stuart McWood. All members of these classes are expected to enroll in the Junior Victory Army.

In the shop work class instruction will be given in the construction of games, puzzles and articles which can be used during blackouts or by the USO. The courier service training will prepare boys 15 and more to assist air raid control centers during emergencies while the first aid instruction will equip boys for the care of the injured.

Albert Payson Terhune, Dog Story Author, Dies

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., Feb. 18 (INS)—Albert Payson Terhune, America's best known writer of dog stories, died today at 69 of a heart ailment after a long illness.

Terhune was 42 before he began the series of stories and books which won a place for the dog in fiction and fame for the author.

At the height of his writing career his income was reported to be as high as $90,000 annually, but Terhune worked as much as 12 hours a day, maintaining the pace until he was 64. Then he cut his writing tasks to two syndicated columns a week and learned to relax.

Terhune was born in Newark, N. J., Dec. 21, 1872, the son of the Rev. Edward P. and Mary Virginia Terhune. His bent for writing came from his mother who wrote fiction under the pen name of Marion Harland.

Graduating from Columbia University, Terhune traveled through the Far East for a year and then went to work as a cub reporter on the old New York World. He remained there for 20 years and eventually became sports editor.

His first fiction was written in collaboration with his mother and his next "fiction" attempt was as ghost writer for Jim Jeffries, Kid McCoy and other sports figures.

MIDDLE EAST CONVOYS SAFE AFTER BATTLE

LONDON, Feb. 18 (AP)—British planes and warships covering evidently important convoy movements in the Mediterranean have turned Axis efforts to blast the merchantmen into another air and naval defeat, the Admiralty declared today.

Although it acknowledged that two British merchantmen were lost, it declared all others reached their destinations safely in the face of "great efforts to inflict serious losses" and torpedo hits were scored on three enemy cruisers and a destroyer.

Two of the cruisers and destroyers were those reported in the Middle East communique yesterday as having been located and torpedoed by naval aircraft. One was left burning and lagging astern of the enemy squadron.

The other cruiser, an eight-inch gun warship on which two torpedo hits were scored, was intercepted and attacked later by a British submarine, the communique said.

Enemy reports, it said, were the "usually greatly exaggerated claims."

"The facts are that no casualties in personnel were suffered either by His Majesty's ships or by the merchant ships in the convoy," the Admiralty said. "Only superficial damage was caused to one of His Majesty's ships.

"Two merchant ships were damaged and had subsequently to be sunk by our forces since towing was impractical.

"The remainder safely reached their destination."

These operations, which apparently were extensive, occurred between Feb. 13 and 16, but only enemy aircraft managed to make contact, the communique said. It listed five of the air attackers as definitely shot down and four more as probably destroyed.

(Direct hits by German planes on two British naval and two merchant ships in a convoy north of Tobruk were claimed by a German communique last Saturday. It said one 10,000-ton merchantman and a destroyer were sunk.

(An Italian communique claimed Monday that a British destroyer, a patrol boat and seven merchantmen were sunk from a big convoy bound from Alexandria to Malta. A combined Axis air and sea assault lasting three days, the Italians said, also caused damage to eight more cargo vessels, five cruisers and two destroyers, and forced other ships in the convoy to turn back.)

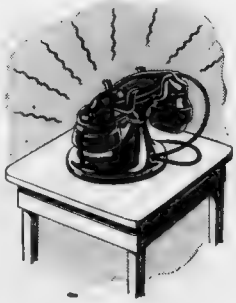
URGENTLY NEEDED

telephone service

IN WAYS LIKE THIS



PLEASE ANSWER the telephone as promptly as possible.

Telephone equipment and personnel that are held, waiting for you to answer, are temporarily out of service.

A 1st Interceptor Flight Command Report Center

FIVE or six seconds delay beyond the ordinary answering time may not seem important to you. Ordinarily it wouldn't be important. But right now your Telephone Company is handling nearly seven million calls a day and more and more all the time. A few seconds tie-up of telephone people and apparatus on thousands and thousands of calls soon amounts to hours and days of telephone service urgently needed by New England war activities.

One bit of switchboard and a telephone line held for a party to answer, multiplied by thousands, becomes a whole row of switchboards and outgoing cables that are held—out of service. Switchboards are hard to get these days. Copper for wires, lead for cable sheaths, zinc, aluminum and other materials are on the scarcities list.

Your Telephone Company must make its equipment produce the greatest possible amount of telephone service. You can help—in just such apparently little ways as answering your telephone as promptly as you can.

Please help us to do the best possible war-time telephone job! REMEMBER TO ANSWER YOUR TELEPHONE PROMPTLY.

group to rally in support of the campaign to place THE FAITH OF MASSACHUSETTS IN THE FUTURE OF AMERICA, a campaign in which EVERY MAN, WOMAN AND CHILD SHOULD PLAY A PART.

YOU LEND, NOT GIVE

This is a drive—as you must know by now—to SELL DEFENSE BONDS AND STAMPS for the purchase of MASSACHUSETTS VICTORY BOMBERS for our fighting forces.

It is a campaign endorsed by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau as a means of furthering the mighty American effort to CRUSH OUT AXIS FOES IN THE QUICKEST POSSIBLE TIME.

In this campaign you actually give nothing. Instead, you make an investment—the world's safest investment. You store up for yourself against the future years. You merely LEND YOUR MONEY and it comes back to you, at 10 years' maturity, swelled by 33 1-3 per cent.

More important is this:

YOUR INVESTED MONEY GOES INTO THE CONSTRUCTION OF THE PLANES THAT WILL WIN THIS WAR.

REPORT PURCHASES

In buying Defense Bonds and Stamps as part of this great campaign, remember to specify that your purchase is in connection with the BUY A BOMBER DRIVE conducted by these newspapers as part of President Roosevelt's vast program for an air armada to crush the Axis foes.

Under this plan every Stamp or Bond you buy will STRIKE FOR FREEDOM.

One basic purpose of the drive is to get men, women and children to BUY DEFENSE BONDS AND STAMPS REGULARLY. If you already are buying Bonds and Stamps regularly, you are requested to increase the amount of your investment for the BOMBER FUND.

It is requested that individuals buying either Stamps or Bonds in connection with the MASSACHUSETTS BOMBER DRIVE notify these newspapers by WRITING to the BUY-A-BOMBER EDITOR, 5 Winthrop sq, Boston, so that the amount representing each investment may be listed.

But BUY BONDS AND STAMPS TODAY. They buy the bombers.

Following is a list of BONDS FOR BOMBERS allocations to date:

ADRIENNE ROWE AND DAVID A. WHITE
Getting Their Stamps for Bombers

ADRIENNE, 7, AND DAVID, 5, SHOW PATRIOTIC SPIRIT

Adrienne Rowe is only seven. David A. White is five, going on six.

They came into Boston today—all the way from Braintree—to do their share in the BUY BOMBERS WITH BONDS campaign.

At Boston central postoffice they went up to the window where there was a sign, "Defense Stamps Sold Here."

Adrienne stood up on the little marble ledge and pushed her money through the wicket. She said:

"Stamps for bombers."

She got her stamps and she stood back, shaking her blonde curls in satisfaction as little Davy girded himself for the ordeal.

It was a little higher climb for Davy, but he finally made it. He pushed his coins in under the wicket and said, as Adrienne had said:

"Stamps for bombers."

He got them and he stood down and he grinned in satisfaction at his blonde girl friend. Then they joined the elders who had brought them.

Adrienne and Davy had done their part.

John F. in Washington For Union Terminal

Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, Boston Port Authority member, conferred in Washington today with Transportation Co-ordinator Joseph Eastman and Cong. John W. McCormack on a proposal to merge Boston's three terminals, in the interest of national defense.

If rail facilities were joined, Boston's port business will show a decided improvement as well as speeding up defense transportation in New England, Fitzgerald contends.

You Can Specify Bonds Are for Bomber Drive

Individuals buying defense bonds may stipulate on the purchase application blank that their purchases are in connection with the Massachusetts Bombers' Campaign.

On the left-hand side of the green application blank, opposite where you write the name with which the bond is to be inscribed, notice the three words: "Buy for Defense." Immediately above this is a small space in which can be written "Massachusetts Bombers' Campaign." Write this only in the space described.

Individuals or firms buying either stamps or bonds in connection with the Massachusetts Bombers' drive are requested to notify these newspapers by WRITING to the BUY-A-BOMB EDITOR, 5 Winthrop sq, Boston, so that the amount representing their investment may be listed.

It is specifically requested that individual purchases be reported in writing rather than by telephone.

U. S. Tanker Abandoned At Sea by Crew of 40

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 18 (AP)—The Atlantic Refining Co.'s 19,400-ton tanker E. H. Blum was abandoned off the Atlantic coast Monday night by her crew of 40, who expressed divergent opinions when landed as to whether their vessel had been torpedoed or had struck a minefield.

Two members of the crew suffered minor injuries in escaping in four lifeboats from the tanker, which was still afloat when they last saw her.

Survivors interviewed here by newsmen agreed that the tanker was wrecked by three explosions spaced about 15 minutes apart. None saw a submarine, they said.

Capt. William L. Evans, of Philadelphia, declined to talk about the wrecking of the ship.

The crew was picked up by a rescue vessel within an hour after their four lifeboats were launched.

Ernest Lee Thomas, able seaman, of Jasper, Fla., who was on lookout duty on the forecastle head when the first explosion rocked the tanker, gave this account:

"I saw a light, which I took to be the mastlight of another ship, about 75 yards off the starboard bow. I reported this light to the bridge and about 75 seconds later the captain ordered full speed ahead and hard right. Then there was an explosion and the bow came up five or six feet. I thought we had rammed a submarine. The tanker listed to port. I believe we were torpedoed.

"Capt. Evans gave the order to stand by the lifeboats but not to lower away. Fifteen minutes later there was a second explosion and the skipper gave the order to abandon ship. After the second blast the ship stopped dead. That is why I believe the third explosion, which took place after my lifeboat had left the tanker, must have been from a torpedo, because a motionless ship could not run into a mine."

Fireman Irving Blumenberg, who was in the engine room, said mines instead of torpedoes wrecked the tanker because the bulkheads "sort of collapsed" instead of "blowing upward as they would have done if we had been struck by torpedoes."

Tanker at Aruba Still Aflame

MARACAIBO, Venezuela, Feb. 18 (AP)—The torpedoed tanker Monagas, one of seven ships attacked Monday by German submarines off the Caribbean islands of Aruba and Curacao, was still aflame at sea northwest of Aruba today and all hope of saving her was abandoned. Four members of the crew still are missing.

The 3945-ton tanker Pedernales has been beached at Aruba. Only seven of her crew of 26 have been reported rescued.

The Texaco tanker Arkansas also has been beached at Aruba.

The 3177-ton Shell tanker Rafaela, operating under the Dutch flag, was reported safe.

Latest reports here said nine of the 2395-ton tanker Tia Juana's crew of 27 had been saved, along with 15 of the crew of 25 from the 2396-ton Oranjestad which sailed under the British flag, and 13 of the crew of 28 from the 2391-ton San Nicolas, which also operated under the British flag.

U-Boat Sinks Brazilian Boat With 2 Torpedoes

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 18 (AP)—Two torpedoes from a German submarine sank the Brazilian passenger-cargo steamer Buarque off the Virginia coast Sunday morning in the first hostile act against the South American republic since diplomatic relations were severed Jan. 28 with Germany, Italy and Japan.

The Navy announced the sinking last night shortly after two rescue boats had brought in 37 survivors, bringing to 83 the number of persons saved. Forty-six were landed Monday and the rescue boats last night brought one body leaving only one person missing from the 11 passengers and 74 crewmen aboard.

Walter F. Shivers, of New York, an employe of Pan-American Airways, said the Brazilian ensign was painted on both sides of the 5152-ton vessel with an illuminated sign pointing to it.

Lifeboats had pulled only a short distance from the ship when the second torpedo struck, and she sank in 30 seconds, John P. Dunn, Pan-American Airways construction engineer, from New York, related here. He told how the boats drifted all day until rescue ships summoned by Navy planes arrived in the afternoon.

Three women and a 5-year-old boy, Freddie Ferreira, of Newark, N. J., were among the 46 persons landed Monday. Almost everyone interviewed wanted to talk about how the litle boy took it—everything except seasickness. He didn't even want a jelly dessert upon landing because it reminded him of the waves.

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (INS) — Declaring that Axis thrusts hawput the United States "on the spot," War Production Director Donld M. Nelson today asked war industries to cancel any holidayplans for George Washington's Birthday Monday because thiscountry can't expect its troops to "stop planes and tanks with their bare hands."

"If we lo the battle of production wehe the war," he said bluntly.

In a formal statement attacking "complacency and "selfishness," Nelson asserted:

"The mo effective way to honor GeorgWashington's memory this yea is to work full time so that thnation to which he gave indepnence can make that independen stick.

"The Unitd States is fighting for its life. I mean that. We're on the spotWe're paying heavily for our eplacency, for our selfishness,for our failure to peel off our shiand do a job."

He warned that no labor disputes as to whether workers should be paid overtime on the holiday should interfere with ful war production.

Do the job now and settle differences later, he urged.

nus of the railroad running north from Bangkok."

Chiengmai, 300 miles north of Bangkok, Thailand capital, has been converted into a Japanese base in northern Thailand. The forbidding mountainous territory, however, slows communicatione and possibly prevents a more positive report.

Previously, thousands of Chinese troops moving through the steep pases of the frontier area had their first encounter with Japanese patrols several days ago.

Such an offensive would be the first land attack by any of United Nations forces on territory held by Japan. One purpose of such a thrust would be to relieve pressure on the British along the Bilin.

On the vital southern front, where the Burma road was threatened, the communique said that the Japanese attacked yesterday on the British left flank and that hand-to-hand battles resulted.

Bombers based in Burma struck successfully at a Japanese airdrome in northern Thailand yesterday, and also inflicted damage on Japanese troops and supply stores along the Salween and in the Martaban area.

Official U. S. Communique

The text of the War Department communique, No. 112 of the war, based on reports received here up to 9:30 a. m., Eastern War Time, follows:

"1—Philippine theater: New enemy air units are appearing over our lines, bombing our troops almost constantly. Another bombing attack was made on the refugee camp at Cascaben.

"Hostile artillery fire on our forts from positions on the Cavite shore continues. New enemy batteries in Bataan have increased the density of artillery fire on our positions.

"A fairly large convoy of Japanese troop ships has arrived in Subic Bay and enemy reinforcements are landing at Olongapo.

"2—Netherlands Indies:

"A flight of American Army Flying Fortress bombers attacked Japanese ships off Bangka island. Direct hits were scored on a large enemy transport and on a small transport. Both are believed to have been sunk. Two enemy barges were destroyed. There was no damage to any of our planes."

AUSTRALIA SPEEDS WAR MEASURES

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 18 (INS)—Australia's war cabinet reviewed the war situation today as the commonwealth rushed preparations for a possible Japanese attack.

The cabinet suspended radio and telephone services to the United States and the Netherlands East Indies beginning Saturday. Certain approved broadcasts will still be permitted, however.

Army Minister Francis M. Forde deputized for Prime Minister John Curtin, who is in a Sydney hospital.

The war situation at home and overseas, reviewed in the light of latest reports from Australian service chiefs, was bad.

Measures for mobilization of all Australian human and material resources were approved by the war cabinet, scheduled to meet again later in the day. hTe full cabinet meets tonight.

Latest reports said isolated groups of Australians are now holding out on three fronts—in the Balkans, where small groups are still conducting guerrilla warfare against the Germans; on the Netherlands East Indies island of Ambon, 600 miles north of Port Darwin, and on New Guinea, north of Australia.

Forde recounted an epic story of the Australian force on Ambon Island and its preparations to defy overwhelming hordes of Japanese. The last message to reach Sydney said all code books had been destroyed and that the troops were taking up battle stations.

Thereafter there was silence . . .

But Japanese comments subsequently made it clear that Lieut.-Col. Scott, who was specially sent from Australia to Ambon, fulfilled his orders to "hold on to the last possible minute."

RADIO-DIRECTED SOVIET BIG GUNS SMASH NAZIS

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Feb. 18 (AP)—Soviet Big guns, some directed by radio from Russian guerrilla detachments which had driven behind the German lines, today were reported to be smashing Nazi positions all along the front from Leningrad deep into the southwest.

In one sector of the front west of Kalinin a tank-led German counterattack was thrown back by artillery which destroyed three of the tanks then routed the Nazi infantry. In another northwestern front zone the Red Army claimed to have cut off a Nazi defensive position with concentrated fire which forced the invaders to abandon 15 cannon in their retreat.

Army dispatches said a number of important but unspecified villages were recaptured in the southwest, where the Russian batteries poured a heavy rain of shells into a double line of Nazi defenses that included land-mine fields.

Only two newly-recaptured places were mentioned — Sosino, on the Smolensk iront, and Manakhovo, on the Leningrad front.

(Neither place appears on any available maps.)

(A Stockholm dispatch to the London Daily Herald said it was reported that a Soviet army corps, including six Polish divisions, was now only 50 miles from the frontier of old Poland on a drive "with gathering momentum" into White Russia.

(The Poles were said to be equipped with British rifles, tanks and trucks for land operations and Russian planes for air support.)

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN OF THE JURY: I am a widow and for some time I have been going with a very fine man.

I have a very fine daughter who has been very close to me since her dad died. She is in her 20's and has a boy friend. She wants me to give up this man I am going with as she is going to get married very soon. The man my daughter is marrying is going into the Army and seh says we can be together. But what life will I have?

I think a lot of my friend and he has a nice position. Shall I give him up and stay with my daughter? I dearly love her, but I also love the man I am speaking of.

H. S. R.

HOW THE JURY VOTED
Women: Yes, nene; No, six.
Men: Yes, one; No, five.

HAIRDRESSER: No, not unless she wants to be a complete fool. Her life is her own and her daughter should appreciate that fact.

EXECUTIVE: No. Why should she cheat herself of a happy re-marriage just to please a selfish daughter?

SALESGIRL: No. The daughter should understand that she is lonely. I think perhaps the daughter would if the mother explained it carefully.

SAILOR: Yes. Maybe the daughter knows something about this guy that she doesn't.

ELEVATOR OPERATOR (WOMAN): No. The daughter only wants somebody to keep her company while her husband's in the Army and that's not fair.

CLERK: No. If she fants to be with both her daughter and the man, then why don't the three of them live in one house?

WAITRESS: No. If she can make a good marriage she ought to do so and stop letting her daughter run her life.

GAS STATION ATTENDANT: No. I guess not, but she doesn't say how long ago it was her husband died.

HOUSEWIFE: No. I think she should marry this man and then invite her daughter to live with them while the daughter's husband is away.

No. I think she should marry this man and then invite her daughter to live with them while the daughter's husband is away.

COMMISSION MERCHANT: No. The daughter's attitude is a little selfish, but of course it is hard for children to understand a parent's re-marriage.

FACTORY WORKER (WOMAN): No because when the husband comes out of the Army the daughter will go off and leave her alone.

FIREMAN: No. She's got a right to get married again since her daughter is grown up now and married herself.

How Can a Nice Girl Meet the Right Boy?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'M A GIRL of 17 years of age and attend a well-recommended school for girls and come from a family of average means.

I'm popular at school and have even been elected to an office, so you see I have plenty of girl friends.

My problem, as well as that of m· girl friends, is how may we meet and enjoy the company of the opposite sex?

"ALICE"

Why not get up a dancing class, invite your schoolmates to join and bring their brothers? Some must have brothers or cousins. Folk-dancing is so popular at the present time that you might get a professional teacher to organize such a class. You do not state whether this school which you attend is a boarding or a day school. If it's a boarding school isn't there some sort of entertainment given to which boys are invited? How about your church? Aren't there any young peoples' organizations, singing classes or clubs to which both boys and girls go?

CRANBERRY FROST

2 cups cranberry juice
1 tbsp. lemon juice
2 egg whites, beaten stiff

Combine cranberry juice and lemon juice. Beat egg whites until stiff. Add cranberry mixture and beat until foamy. Pour into individual glasses. Chill. Top each glass with a sprinkle of nutmeg Makes 6 servings.

Amazing Cough Relief, Mixed In Your Kitchen

No Trouble. No Cooking. Saves Big Dollars.

Yes, ma'am, right in your own kitchen, you can easily mix a cough medicine that is a wonder for quick results, and gives you about four times as much for your money. And it's no trouble—a child could do it.

You'll need a syrup. Make it by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed.

Now get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, and pour it into a pint bottle. Then add your syrup. There you have a full pint of really remarkable medicine for coughs due to colds. It lasts a family a long time, and tastes fine—children love it.

And does it do the work! You'll say it beats anything you ever tried. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases the soreness, and lets you rest at night.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Beauty

"LUCKY DOG" might well be the caption for this picture of Larain Day with Igor, her mastiff puppy. Larain's flawless skin is the envy even of Hollywood stars, and you may be sure she will keep it lovely, as you should yours. Movie stars have added war work to their long hours in the studio under hot lights and heavy make-up, but they won't let that interfere with their beauty routines. To protect your skin from dryness and worry lines, try the complexion oil Arline Gould tells you of today.

KEEP UP YOUR LOOKS, GIRLS, IN THESE TRYING TIMES

By ARLINE GOULD

THIS is going to be a pep talk. Heaven knows we all need a stiffening of the spirit these days—even down to the trivial matter of our looks—for girls and women who haven't the heart to strive for beauty.

Even without the worries of war, of loved ones leaving, of an uncertain future, ordinary mid-winter ravages our skins. This is the season when overheated rooms and wintry blasts combine to give us that dried-up look, and when it takes major measures to restore the glow of youth.

Your best hope, if you are feeling low and looking lower, is stimulating, deep lubrication for your tired face. There is a deep-penetrating complexion oil that will do wonders for your sand-paper skin and those give-away lines around your eyes and mouth. I wish you'd try it, and smile again.

This is the product of a celebrated skin hygienist, whose salon treatments are famous: I once heard a very busy and stunning woman executive say:

"Whenever I feel as though life couldn't be worse and that I look every day of my age and more, I spend five dollars on one of those facials and go out feeling like Deitrich!"

All of us can't afford lengthy and costly salon treatments.

One or two of these home overnight treatments with this oil, which duplicates the natural oils your skin should have, and you will notice the difference. A few weeks' faithful use of it, and you'll tackle your part of winning the war with new confidence.

Nobody, least of all our men in service, loves a sourpuss. They want us to be as attractive as possible, while we carry on for home defense. So get after that skin now!

Arline Gould will tell you where to buy this splendid complexion oil if you call her at LIBerty 4000 week-days, before 5, or write her, enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope, at the Boston Evening American.

NEWS FOR MODERN WOMEN

• FOOD •

By Martha Lee

"AND STILL THE WONDER" grows that nature could have planned an individual food package — averaging only two ounces as normally produced by hens—that could be so chuckful of superior nutrition and with it all, possess unusual cooking performances that are perhaps taken too much for granted.

Homemakers ever anxious to incorporate the fundamental foods that are essential for health and well being, will be glad to know that the friendly egg is more nearly interchangeable with milk in nutrition value than is any other food. Nutrition authorities have placed eggs within that special group of protective foods and on an equal basis with milk.

Egg cookery has sometimes been considered exacting, which is perhaps a bit unfair because if treated so as to avoid only the high temperatures or too long a cooking time at even low to moderate temperature, it is the friendliest food in the world. And strangely these "mistreatments" in egg cookery are conditions which the homemaker does not enjoy herself—high temperatures and long cooking.

It is especially fitting that the goodness of this egg package blends so perfectly with the other basic foods, milk, cereals, fruits and vegetables. Perhaps it will be something of a surprise to a few homemakers that onions and eggs are one of the tastiest combinations imaginable.

ONION SHORTCAKE

Biscuit dough
1½ cups finely sliced onions
2 tbsp. fat
4 eggs, beaten
1½ cups milk
¼ tsp. pepper
⅛ tsp. nutmeg

Line casserole with biscuit dough and build rim around the edge. Meanwhile cook onions in the fat until soft (covered) but not brown. Mix eggs, milk and seasonings with the cooked onions. Pour in casserole. Brush top edge of crust with liquid dipped from the filling. Place in hot oven for about 15 minutes to set the crust, then reduce heat to moderate and cook until the custard is set (in the center).

DEVILED EGG, Macaroni and Pea Salad with Potato Chips.

With this dinner or supper shortcake, a crisp vegetable salad, stewed fruit with crisp cookies or cake, and a beverage is suggested for the meal pattern.

Another suggestion for these Lenten days when meatless meals are a problem is:

DEVILED EGG, MACARONI AND PEA SALAD

10 to 12 deviled eggs
1 pkg. (12 to 16-oz.) elbow macaroni
1 No. 2 can (2½ cups) peas
French dressing
Radish roses
Salad greens (optional)

Boil macaroni in salted water according to package directions, adding 2 tablespoons shortening to the water. Drain, rinse with cold water. Drain again thoroughly. Marinate lightly with French dressing, then chill. Drain the peas thoroughly, then marinate in French dressing about 15 minutes. Drain before adding to salad. Save stock for soup.

Moisten macaroni with added dressing if desired. Heap in chilled salad bowl or plate. Alternate deviled eggs and radish roses around the edge, pressing them into the macaroni. Fill in with a border of the drained peas between the eggs and macaroni. Serve with a bowl of potato chips. Pass additional French or mayonnaise dressing, if desired. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

DEVILED EGGS

10 to 12 hard-cooked eggs
2 tbsp. salad dressing
2 tbsp. lemon juice, or vinegar
1½ tsp. mustard
1½ tsp. A-1, or Worcestershire sauce
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. celery salt
¼ tsp. pepper

Cut a half inch slice from rounded end of egg. Cut a saw tooth edge around the white if desired. Carefully remove yolks. Pres yolks and bits of left-over whites through sieve. Add remaining ingredients and beat until light and fluffy. Add more seasoning if desired. Refill shells using pastry tube for decorating top, if desired.

FEMININITY for odd-duty moments! That is the cry of men in khaki and blue, from brass hats down to rookies. The boys don't want you to wear your defense uniform out on a date, nor do they warm up to that practical tailored dark crepe. So, no matter how busy you are, it behooves you to have a frock that is softly pretty which you can slip into quickly. This one is ideal! It is made of koda jersanda, a richly dull stuff knitted of acetate rayon; you won't be pressing it all the time, for the wrinkles shake out in the closet. It flatters with its bishop sleeve, shirred hipline and rippling skirt, and its flower buttons add a dressy touch.—ANNICE BRINK, Fashions Editor.

THESE PLAYSUITS, DRESSES ARE SOFT AND FLATTERING

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THERE'S a flattering softness about the new play suits and dresses being shown for early Spring. With so many of us wearing tailored suits and uniforms, the designers think that in other kinds of clothes softness and flattery will be what's wanted, and so they have acted accordingly.

Pollack, one of the famous sports clothes designers of America, is making spring sports dresses of soft jersey, and putting them over very short play and swim dresses of the same stuff. Miss Dulin has sketched one of his models, which is a fine example of the softness that I am talking about. The dress is greige colored jersey, with a satin belt and gathered skirt and blouse. The swim suit that goes under it is made of the same material in the same color, but with a vivid green hem on the very short skirt.

Exclusive — MRS. ROOSEVELT SAYS:

England's Lesson

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT
National Woman Director of Civilian Defense

WASHINGTON, TUESDAY — I had the pleasure yesterday of seeing Mrs. June Hamilton Rhodes, who came down from New York city to talk over some aspects of merchandising in Latin America, brought about by the recent South American fair held in New York city. This was most successful and created tremendous interest. There is much more we can undoubtedly do along these lines.

In the evening, I went to speak to a small group called the Monday Evening Club. I found to my pleasure that Dr. Winifred Cullis, who has been speaking as a representative of the British government, was the other speaker.

She told of what had been done in England for the benefit of the civilian population. As she proceeded, it became evident that, without mentioning the Office of Civilian Defense, she was making a speech in favor of all the activities which dealt with volunteer participation of civilian mobilization, and which had little or nothing to do with civilian protection.

It became increasingly clear that England had discovered that civilian protection could not exist without civilian mobilization.

IN READING the papers this morning, I could not help wondering how the displaced men feel in industries all over the country. They are anxious to get to work but, for the time being, must wait for industries to be converted to new uses.

Members of Congress and governors of states, talk about increasing the unemployment compensation to a possible $24.00.

People seem to forget that this unemployment compensation usually must cover the needs of families ranging from four to six members—rent, food, heat, light, clothing, recreation, education, medical care must all come out of this sum.

Could the Congressmen do it on any less? Could the governors do it on any less?

ON THE OTHER HAND, I think people have been making a hue and cry over something which has never been quite well understood. Congress did not vote a pension to itself.

It established a system of insurance, by which every person earning a salary in the government would pay in a certain amount regularly and, after a given number of years of public service, would be entitled, according to the amount paid in, to a certain sum as a yearly pension.

This is nothing more than we are trying to work out under the old age pension system.

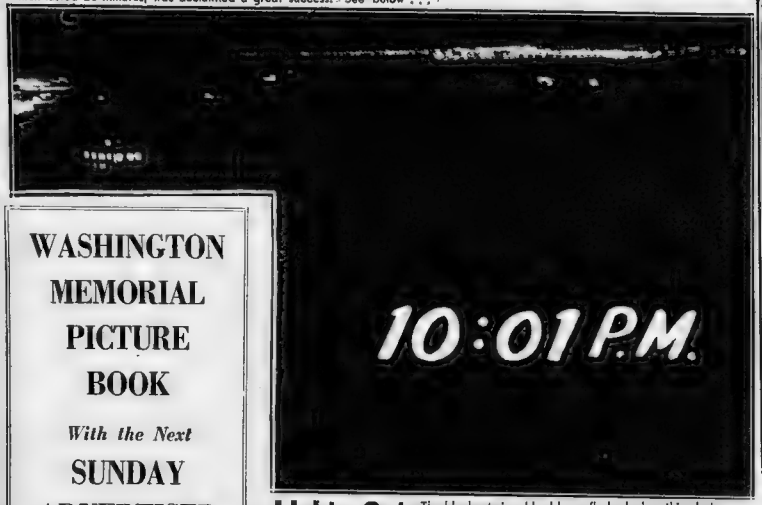
BOSTON'S FIRST WARTIME

ACCLAIMED GREAT SUCCESS

Boston in Brilliance—It's lights on here as Boston prepared for its first wartime blackout . . . and the brilliance that was to go spread its glow across miles of the city. This photo was taken from the new Courthouse building, looking toward South Station, one minute before the blackout order was given. The test, which lasted 20 minutes, was acclaimed a great success. See below . . .



Lights Out—The blackout signal had been flashed when this photo was snapped from the same spot as the picture above . . . and only the lights of the South Shore (in distance) and those of government office in Federal building (left) remained lit.

OUR DAILY CITATION: To Lieut.-Gen. William S. Knudsen, war production chief, for his forthright statement of America's needs, made yesterday in Boston. Said the Lieutenant-General: "We've got to get together and work hard. Remember, we're behind in everything until we get more than we can use."

ASH WEDNESDAY, observed today in many churches and lands as the beginning of the 40-day period of penance and prayer preparatory to the great Christian feast of Easter, was never more important.

Too many men have forgotten Christ's words: "Remember, man, that thou art dust and unto dust thou shall return."

Too many men have chosen to ignore the fact that the Son of God, who raised the dead, restored sight to the blind and proved beyond any doubt that nothing was impossible for Him to do, commanded brotherly love, charity and universal helpfulness.

But those that believe in God and His teachings should not despair or be discouraged.

The spirit of Ash Wednesday and Lent is eternal, and its challenge is everlasting.

Long after dictators and tyrants will have passed from the world, their bones and ambitions buried unceremoniously in the dust of time, Ash Wednesday and Lent will continue to speak to the souls of men, saying:

"Turn from the sordid paths of earth. Look up. Follow in Christ's peaceful way."

PARLOR GAMES, such as badminton, ping-pong and the like, are "out" for the duration at Columbia University.

Instead, future Phi Beta Kappas will wrestle, box, do long-distance running, and participate in other athletic activities that require strength and stamina.

Says Professor T. Bruce Kilpatrick, official of the college's physical education department:

"The aim of the program is to insure that the normal, able-bodied student of Columbia will be made physically ready to fulfill with least delay whatever part he may be called upon to play in the national defense."

Other educational institutions, our Massachusetts high schools included, would do well to study this idea with the intention of adopting it.

After all, what good is accomplished by permitting 10 per cent of a student body to engage in strenuous sports while the other 90 per cent of the youngsters sit in bleachers and exercise only their vocal cords?

Esthetic dancing and parlor games are no better substitutes for real exercise than boondoggling is for defense work.

IF YOU WRITE you can help America's war effort; Gurth F. Chambers, director of the salvage division of the Massachusetts Committee on Public Safety, tells how to do it.

"We believe that thousands of tons of paper can be saved if everyone of us remembers to use BOTH sides of a sheet of paper instead of using another sheet when a letter runs over one page," Mr. Chambers says.

A further saving of paper can be effected if business men and their secretaries use the reverse side of incoming mail for carbon copies of their own letters when possible, and, again, if they use the reverse side of incoming letters in replying to them, typing in their own letter heads.

New York set a commendable example for the rest of the nation to follow when it restricted written tests for school children and banned the common practice of using only one side of the paper.

There is no reason why school boards in Massachusetts and all other New England States cannot make similar regulations.

After all, this is as much our war as it is New York's.

OUR FIRST BLACKOUT made only one unfavorable impression on this writer; namely, the failure of some windows to appear completely darkened.

In some instances the cloth that was supposed to prevent light inside a house from being visible to persons on the outside did not come up to expectations.

In other instances the shades were too short to reach to the sills, and it was easy therefore for a passerby to know which rooms were illuminated and which were not.

The owners of faulty equipment should remedy the defects as soon as possible. This was only a test, and little or no harm was done.

In the event of a possible nocturnal air raid the story might be grievously different.

MASSACHUSETTS PEOPLE will be asked to collect a half-million tons of scrap metal during the current year.

Defense officials are enlisting school children, home and farm owners, and all patriotic citizens in the important war-time effort.

We are sure everyone will co-operate to the very best of his ability.

There are thousands of tons of iron and steel gathering rust and dust in Massachusetts, in cellars, barns, factories and abandoned trolley lines.

This metal is accomplishing no good at the present time, but in the form of modern tanks and aircraft it might be the difference between victory and defeat in some battle of the future.

WHEN automobile production is resumed, it is probable the new model cars will be made with the engine in the rear. The automobile industry expects the war to last five years . . . Some Washington, D. C., night clubs have a $5 cover charge and are still turning customers away nightly. Never before has the national capital seen so many free spenders on such a spending spree as at present . . . Based on a number of tests of college students, the statement is again made that people born in the Spring are taller and smarter than those born in the Summer. I was born in the Summer, on good, old July 24. Perhaps people born in the Spring are smarter than I am, but not many are taller. My height is 73½ inches.

SIDELIGHTS: In addition to being a vegetarian, Hitler is a nightshirt wearer. Most vegetarians prefer nightshirts to pajamas, but I don't know why . . . One Hollywood film star exploited as a "He Man" type, a marvel of physical perfection, etc., has not impressed the draft physical examiners, who have placed him in Class 3A . . . "What was that definition of charm again?" asks an Albany, N. Y., subscriber. Please pay more attention, lady. Was a quotation from J. M. Barrie's play, "What Every Woman Knows," as follows: "It's a sort of a bloom on a woman. If you have it, you don't need to have anything else. If you don't have it, it doesn't much matter what else you have." Elinor Glynn has been credited with coining the term "It." However, when Mrs. Glynn, referring to Aileen Pringle, said: "She has it," she was thinking of Barrie's lines and meant that Aileen had charm. Aileen Pringle was the first "It" girl; Clara Bow was the second.

ASIDES: The most unheeded of all four-word warnings is the one that appears on the cover of every book of matches. Now don't tell me you are so unobserving as not to be able to state offhand what that warning is . . . Again, I note it stated that financier Floyd Odlum in his youth rode ostriches in races against horses. Again, the writer fails to state who won the most races; the ostriches or the horses. What can an ostrich do six furlongs in? Is this bird a sprinter or a router? How much weight can he carry? Is there a racing ostrich left in the country? These are the things I would like to know . . . Some of the Nazi military strategy is based on a study of Indian warfare in the United States made by German military experts some years ago. The American Indians were past masters in the art of the surprise attack.

SAYS CONNIE: "You stated that girls named Connie are usually blondes, make excellent wives and mothers and sulk if they are not taken to a night club at least once a week," writes Connie Bennett Roland, the justly celebrated cinema actress. "I am blonde and I am trying hard to be an excellent wife and mother. But I have not been inside a night club for more than a year and am still smiling. However, I can and do sulk, especially when my husband pins my ears back at gin rummy."

HUSBANDS, ETC.: "He is a little boy and a man all mixed up" is the way a husband is described in a magazine article. How about this "little boy" angle, allegedly prevalent in husbands? Does the wife treat her husband like a little boy or does he act like one? Maybe the latter is the case, because I have heard some wives bitterly complain regarding their husband's "little boy complex." But how about that "little girl complex" that wives have? You know, when they put on playsuits and start romping around in a highly kittenish manner. Or when they go in for baby talk.

LOVELY CONSTANCE BENNETT ROLAND
Denies Blondes Are Night Club Enthusiasts

PASSING BY: Frank Hawley. Weight reduction expert. Specializes on keeping down weight of jockeys. He once took 25 pounds off a jockey within 24 hours. For a weight reduction diet, Mr. Hawley favors the one-meal-a-day system. This system appears to be popular with many people who have accomplished unusual things in weight reduction. Ella Mackenzie, the Hollywoodian who reduced her weight from 220 pounds to 120 in six months, said she managed to do so by "eating only one meal a day and falling in love" . . . Victor McLaglen. Has been breeding thoroughbreds at his Covina, Cal., ranch but recently decided not to raise any more race horses for the duration of the war. Instead, he will specialize in food production, starting off with trying to raise something unusual in the way of hogs.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: By instinct those destined for a long life pick matrimonial mates similarly destined. So claims an eminent medico. He might be right. But I believe if a woman is destined by heredity for a long life she often makes it possible for her husband to live a long time by taking good care of him. The care any intelligent wife takes of her husband's health will add from 10 to 30 years to his stay on earth . . . Now matched bathing suits for husband and wife are being discussed. In the photograph I saw of this style the husband was wearing a highly decorated pair of trunks, which it was said were yellow in color, to match his wife's bathing suit. Husbands, arise!

GEORGE JESSEL SIGNS FOR DRAFT

By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, Feb. 18—Gabriel Pascal, the producer and Frances Tannehill, who plays the seductive scatterbrain in "Heart of City," are a Broadway blazer. He may star her in the next theatrical effort . . . George Raft expects Good News from his attorneys any day now. Meaning the divorce has been arranged with Mrs. R. at long last . . . Tyrone Power probably won't re-sign with 20th Century-Fox when his contract is up. He wants to leave the movies and tour the country with his own theatrical troupe. Burgess Meredith may join him . . . Pat Di Cicco is being iced by the Palm Beach regulars, despite Vanderbilt in his bride's maiden name . . . Van Heflin and Michele Morgan are a heartillery barrage . . . Wendell L. Willkie is slated to receive a special Academy Award at the Academy dinner next month—for his legal work in Washington in behalf of the film industry.

BOSTON after DARK

By GEORGE HOLLAND

BOSTON'S GIRL-COMEDIENNE, Collette Lyons, falls heir to another important Broadway comedy role Friday night when she will replace Audrey Christie in "Banjo Eyes" . . . Unfortunately for Collette these prime opportunities seem to fall her way only after the New York critics have passed judgment on other performers in the same jobs . . . Miss Lyons succeeded Martha Raye a season ago in "Hold Onto Your Hats" . . . The irritating feature of these second-hand roles is that Collette is devastatingly funny and, if she ever had a pageful of first-night criticisms of her work, she would be an inevitable first choice for a major clowning role in a topflight musical.

COLLETTE'S CONTRACT will permit her to double in a nightclub, and the season will advance her popularity greatly—that is if "Banjo Eyes" continues for a long period . . . Personally, we do not think the Cantor show will linger on Broadway as long as Eddie's friendly claque among the commentators of press and magazines would have us believe . . . In spite of the good business "Banjo Eyes" has enjoyed, it would have required a combination of Flo Ziegfeld, Darryl Zanuck, Secret Agent X-9 and Cole Porter to make the musical into what Broadway calls a "smash." The show just wasn't good enough, and if it hadn't been for Cantor's personal draw, it would have been a catastrophic failure . . . Cole Porter, incidentally, is the most "requested" composer in Boston . . . Several bandleaders have confirmed this suspicion on the part of the oversigned, and young Donald Van Wart, pianist at Club Forty-Three assures us that there can be no doubt of Porter's pre-eminent popularity . . . Donald caters more directly to the wishes of the public than a bandleader . . . He is responsible for all the music the guests of the intimate little Club Forty-Three hear . . . After Porter comes George Gershwin, then Jerome Kern, and next Rodgers and Hart .

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Fifty years an actress, Louise Galloway is pert and chipper and absorbed in the theater . . . She is the little lady who operated a profitable stock company in Worcester and the Red Barn summer theater in Westboro . . . Miss Galloway should have an idea of the value of dramatic academies and drama schools . . . "Most are worthless, absolutely worthless," was her message to a youngster who expressed interest in a stage career in the course of the Ritz-Carlton party to the cast and author of "Under This Roof" . . . Miss Galloway is finished with the Westboro enterprise . . . "When we became a hit, summer theaters sprouted like corn-patches all over the countryside," she said . . . "Who wants to frivol away an entire summer in the face of such competition?" . . . But she has plans for next summer—in "a new territory" . . . New England? . . . She doesn't care to state—not yet.

COLLETTE LYONS

Gets Role in 'Banjo Eyes'

THIS IS SYBIL BOWAN'S last week at the Latin Quarter, and John Boles bowed out of the Mayfair after last night's performances . . . Business was good from the beginning for Mr. Boles, but a Saturday night throng, which made New Year's Eve resemble a minor festival, the popular baritone can return to the Mayfair whenever he has a spare two weeks . . . The ravishing Evalyn Martin is insuring her Boston future, we might say quite positively, at the Cocoanut Grove . . . Miss Martin has played Boston heretofore only as a ballerina of a Broadway revue or musical comedy . . . Booked for two weeks, her engagement was extended an extra fortnight after her second show . . . Tommy Maren has induced the exotic Dagmar to perform her dervish dances at The Beachcomber . . . Whether this is the same Dagmar who electrified the customers at the Old Howard the past week has not been revealed . . . A new lure, by name of June Cooper, has taken over the star's dressing-room at the Old Howard . . . But when the comical Mike Sachs plays the Howard, as he does this week, it is mere gallantry which allocates a dressing-room with the star to a female, however attractive . . . The Sachs name is as sure-fire to the box-office as those of Margie Hart, Ann Corio or Georgia Sothern.

SPLENDID ROLE FOR JOAN FONTAINE

By Louella O. Parsons

Joan Fontaine

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 18—I am sure that there won't be one dissenting vote on David O. Selznick's selection of Ronald Colman to play Edward Rochester in "Jane Eyre." Ronnie is perfect for the moody, unhappy Rochester, and certainly he and Joan Fontaine, who will play Jane, are a combination that even Emily Bronte, the author, would approve. Little Pat Hitchcock, who has made a sensation on the New York stage, will play the young Jane and make her debut in the movies. And I suppose her dad, Alfred Hitchcock, will direct.

This really ought to be one of the reasons best, for most of us would travel miles to see "Jane Eyre" in the movies and David has given us such a good cast.

JUDY GARLAND

SO MANY MOVIES have been rumored coming up - but immediately — for Judy Garland, that it was hard to believe "The Big Time" is really her next. Well, it is and it starts in eight days. Equally interesting is the news Marta Eggerth makes her Metro debut in the second feme role with Judy.

I have been wondering what happened to Miss Eggerth—and evidently the fans have, too. Judging from the queries in my mail. It seems that she has been waiting for the studio to find the right role for her and M-G-M believes the part of a French actress in 'Big Time" fills the bill. This is a yarn of the good old vaudeville days of 1915 and Buz Berkeley directs with Arthur Freed producing.

HAD TO SMILE to myself when one of the enthusiastic boys in the Republic publicity department told me that Anne Jeffreys, beautiful blonde, just signed on a contract, was born 12 miles from Ava Gardner's birthplace in North Carolina. Don't know what that proves—unless it might be how close she came to getting Mickey Rooney. But—joking aside—they are really excited about Anne on the valley lot. She's a 19-year-old charmer who came here about a year ago to study for opera. But like most beautiful youngsters she got the movie bug and, after just a brief role in "I Married an Angel" with MacDonald and Eddy, she's landed this good contract with Republic.

WE DID RAVES over Maxine Sullivan, the Negro blues singer, when she was in Hollywood. But even better than Maxine is Lena Horne, who has just been put under contract by M-G-M. Louis B. Mayer and Arthur Freed, who were at the benefit for the Jewish Home for the Aged Sunday night, have decided to find a picture for her as soon as possible. Lena comes from the West Indies, and has a personality that sparkles.

'HOW GREEN WAS MY VALLEY' HELD OVER SECOND WEEK AT KEITH MEMORIAL

New Record Run Established

"How Green Was My Valley," which goes into its second week at Keith Memorial tonight, is breaking all attendance records at this house with its enviable history of sensational holdover runs.

In the past week, the attendance has topped the previous all-high record run up for a similar length of time by the recent Gary Cooper-Barbara Stanwyck co-starer, "Ball of Fire," and the Ginger Rogers smash-hit, "That Foyle Girl," of some years back.

More than five million persons read the book of the same name.

Set against the colorful background of a Welsh mining village, the story is unfolded by the youngest member of the Morgan family, young Huw, played by Roddy McDowall, who traces the family history over a period of years.

Walter Pidgeon, Maureen O'Hara, Donald Crisp, Sara Allgood, Barry Fitzgerald, Patric Knowles and Anna Lee all give superb performances in this one of the year's 10 best pictures Academy Award-winning John Ford has so brilliantly directed.

GREEN WAS HER VALLEY until tragedy struck the quiet Welsh countryside where Angharad (Maureen O'Hara) dwelt with the rest of the splendid Morgan clan of "How Green Was My Valley," which is to remain a second week on Keith Memorial screen.

"Niagara Falls," with Marjorie Woodworth, Tom Brown and Zasu Pitts, is also being held over.

'The Prime Minister' For Esquire Screen

"The Prime Minister," Warners' made-in-England production, co-starring John Gielgud and Diana Wynyard, will follow the currently showing "Sergeant York" on the Esquire screen.

The film is the screen biography of Disraeli, considered by many historians as England's greatest statesman. The internationally celebrated Shakespearean actor, Gielgud, and Miss Wynyard re-create the poignant love story of the Disraelis. Others in the cast are Will Fyffe, Owen Nares and Fay Compton.

Film Scenes Show U. S. Naval Blitz

Scenes of the first major American offensive of the war, when the United States Pacific fleet warships raided the supposedly unfortified Marshall and Gilbert Islands southwest of Hawaii, is being shown at Keith Memorial.

Sixteen ships sunk, including a cruiser, large liner, three tankers, two submarines. Four military air bases wrecked, air fields, hangars, munitions dumps and barracks. Forty-one Japanese war planes crushed. 28 of them bombers was the toll paid by the enemy.

'Louisiana Purchase' on Twin Screens

Paramount's musical screen hit, "Louisiana Purchase," which will terminate a precedent-breaking two-week engagement on the Met screen tonight, may be seen at the Paramount and Fenway starting tomorrow.

This handsome technicolor film version of the sensational Broadway stage hit, glitters with talent, comedy, swell tunes and eye-resting beauty.

Bob Hope, Zorina, Victor Moore and Irene Bordoni are the featured players in this lavish, lush production.

Zorina, Moore and Bordoni graced the stage production . . . and so did those irresistible song hits, "You're Lonely and I'm Lonely," "Tomorrow Is a Lovely Day" and "Louisiana Purchase."

New Orleans serves as background for this story concerning the comic activities of a political gang whose innocent dupe, Bob Hope, finally wises up to their activities.

"Pacific Blackout," with Robert Preston and Martha O'Driscoll, is the co-feature.

ZORINA AND BOB HOPE trying out some Romeo-and-Juliet scenes on New Orleans' lacey iron balconies in "Louisiana Purchase," to be seen at the Paramount and Fenway Theaters, starting tomorrow.

Colorful Phrases In Sturges Script

Preston Sturges, who frequently has proved that description writing in scripts need not be dull just because it never gets on the screen, comes through with some colorful phrases in his script for "The Palm Beach Story," which co-stars Claudette Colbert and Joel McCrea.

"The laugh falls off his face," one line reads, "like a hot towel."

Eddie Dowling Play Coming to Plymouth

Eddie Dowling will present and star in "Life, Laughter and Tears," described as an "evening of Sean O'Casey and William Saroyan," the week of March 1 at the Plymouth Theater.

Julie Haydon, seen here with Dowling in Saroyan's "Time of Your Life," will co-star with the producer-actor in two of the short plays. Dowling will appear in all three, two by Saroyan and one by O'Casey.

Sailors in Stolen Taxi Injure Man

Richard Currier, 43, electrician at Harvard Medical School, lay in a critical condition at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital today as the result of injuries received when he was hit by a careening stolen taxicab on Huntington ave., Back Bay.

In Cambridge, meanwhile, authorities questioned a man whose auto struck and killed Mrs. Christine Connetta, 62, of Concord ave., Cambridge, as she was crossing the street near her home.

Currier was standing in a street car reservation, on his way to his home in Willow st., Belmont, when the taxicab with a police car in pursuit plunged over the curb and knocked him down. He suffered internal injuries; and one arm and both legs were broken.

The cab narrowly missed a woman and a street car before it skidded and overturned. Two sailors were seen to jump out and run away.

Patrolman Louis Miller of the Roxbury Crossing station spotted the stolen cab in Amory ave. The chase started immediately but at the corner of Huntington ave. his cruiser collided with an auto driven by Patrick J. Lehane of Weld st., Roslindale. The cab sideswiped two cars before striking Currier.

Churchill Accepts Gift From Austrians

LONDON, Feb. 18 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill, accepting the gift of a trailer canteen from Austrians in Britain, declared in a speech today that "only our own follies can deprive us of victory."

"And in the victory of the Allies Austria shall find her honored place," the Prime Minister added.

Penitential Season Begins

The 40-day penitential season of Lent was ushered in today in both Catholic and liturgical Protestant churches throughout Greater Boston.

Special services at which ashes were distributed to the faithful were held in Catholic churches throughout the diocese this morning and will continue this afternoon and this evening when evening devotions, rosary and benediction are scheduled.

Protestant churches marked the beginning of the Lenten season with holy communion. Boston services were held at the Cathedral Church of St. Paul, Trinity Church and Emmanuel Church.

First Blackout Baby Is Sailor's

Leona Jean Ely is Boston's first blackout baby, and quite appropriately she's the new-born daughter of a fighting sailor of Uncle Sam.

Little Leona was born at Chelsea Naval Hospital at 10:10 last night to Mrs. Genevieve Ely, a resident of the Navy housing project in Jamaica Plain.

Although the city of Chelsea did not participate in the blackout, the Naval Hospital was within an area darkened by order of the First Naval District authorities in cooperation with the Boston rehearsal. The father of Leona is Leo Ely, shipfitter, third class, a member of the crew of a U. S. destroyer.

Another Smith Seeks Boston Police Berth

The fact there are 13 Smiths on the Boston police roster hasn't had any apparent effect on the department's luck but, just to be on the safe side, the boys today are pulling for George E. Smith of Brock ave., Dorchester, to pass his physical examination.

George E. placed fourth on the new eligible list for appointment as patrolman and only the physical test stands in his way today.

Added for collectors of odd items: If George E. joins the force, he will be the fourth George Smith among the finest.

Second add, odd items: Two of the George Smiths have "F" for a middle initial.

'FREE NAZIS' NOT WANTED

LONDON, Feb. 18 (AP)—A British spokesman said today that no recognition had been given the anti-Nazi free German movement in Britain "and none is contemplated."

Republics to Get U. S. Autos, Tires

NEW YORK, Feb. 17 (AP)—The Herald Tribune said tonight in a dispatch from Washington that large supplies of automobiles, refrigerators, tires and virtually everything else this nation produces were to be made available soon for export to Latin-American nations in accordance with a pledge given at the recent Pan-American conference that the United States would share "equally and proportionately" its stock of goods with sister republics to the South.

As a first step in the closer economic co-operation, the paper said, a large number of automobiles will be exported to South America from the stock of a half million assembled here since the cessation of automobile production in favor of war goods.

Refrigerators, tires, tin for canning purposes and other commodities will be allocated each South and Central American country, from stocks on a quota basis.

MONEY TO LOAN

IMPORTANT NOTICE

to those who must pay an

Income Tax

Hundreds of persons in Boston will pay an Income Tax this year for the first time; and everyone's tax will be more than it ever was before. For those who may find themselves short of ready cash, The Personal Finance Co. is offering special Tax-Loans of $25 to $250 or more.

Every credit-worthy man and woman, whether on a new job or an old one—whether single or married—can get a Tax-Loan at Personal. A Tax-Loan provides a lump sum of cash immediately, repayable in moderate monthly instalments. For example: $6.65 per month repays $30 on 5 mo. plan. $8.25 per month repays $100 on 18 mos. plan.

Arrangements are made quickly and simply. These loans are made on signature alone without other security—or on furniture or auto—according to the wishes or circumstances of the customer. Naturally, a few facts are required, but no embarrassing questions are asked and outsiders are not involved.

Also available is a "Simplified Work Sheet for Income Tax Payers." This is a convenient form for accumulating and arranging the figures necessary in making out your Income Tax Return. Come in and get this Work Sheet—free, no obligation.

We have this suggestion to make: don't postpone figuring out how much Income Tax you'll have to pay this year. The sooner you know the exact amount, the easier it will be to plan a way to pay it. Then—if you need extra cash, just phone Miss Hogan—Hubbard 5545 for Friendly Quick Service. Or consult your phone book for the office nearest you. License 22.

Tebbetts Takes Pay Cut As Tiger Hurler Revolts

BECKLEY, W. Va., Feb. 18 (AP)—John Gorsica has looked over, didn't like and returned unsigned a second Detroit Tigers' contract, the big righthanded pitcher disclosed today. The 23-year-old Tiger announced last week he would be a holdout because the 1942 contract he received called for a salary cut.

Gorsica said he felt he should have a raise for his good work in 1940 and 1941. Last year he won nine and lost eleven games.

The second contract, Gorsica said, has a bonus clause based on 150 innings which if fulfilled would have eliminated the wage cut.

He did not disclose any figures, but said he had asked for a definite increase over last year.

Gorsica added he had no objection to a clause in the contract for employment on a monthly basis.

LOCAL GIRLS MAKING GOOD WITH GARDEN 'ICE FOLLIES'

That adage, "Local Boy Makes Good," is old but it still holds true, though in this tale it involves not a boy but two girls. They are Mae Ross and June Rae, sisters born in Methuen and Stoneham, respectively, and both currently appearing in the Ice Follies at the Garden.

The story of these two starlets who, until four years ago never wore a pair of skates, is an interesting one.

Mae, nearly 18, the younger of the two and one of the youngest of the entire Follies' cast, is the new and delightful personality who does a solo "Woodland Enchantment" made up of difficult ballet steps. Sister June, 19, who goes by her middle name of Rae, is featured in the Bears' number which includes Fluffy, Muffy and Tuffy.

When Mae was only four their family, which includes just themselves and their mother, left these parts after the death of their father for the warmer climes of California where they still make their home.

IMPRESSED BY SONJA

When the Follies came to Boston last week, it was the first time they came East since they moved from here.

"It was a thrill to get back East and see all my relatives," said pretty Mae between skating licks at the Garden the other afternoon. "I hadn't seen them since we left and I didn't recognize any of them."

During most of their early lives they never dreamed that some day, both would be stars of an ice show.

"It wasn't until I saw Sonja Henie's first movie, 'One in a Million' in 1937 that my sister and I decided to learn to skate," said Mae.

"We hired a pair of skates at the Polar Palace in Hollywood, near our home. Although we couldn't even stand on them, it was fun so we returned almost daily. It wasn't long before we got the knack of it, probably because of our ballet dancing which we had been doing practically all our lives.

"It came so natural that after six months, the Follies which were playing there at the time, gave me my first tryout. I would have joined the show then, but I was too young." (She was 14.)

LIKE HOLLYWOOD BEST

Mae and her sister continued to skate, however, and appeared in ice shows in Hollywood. Mae got her next big chance last May when she was approached by the Ice Follies management to fill in for Bess Ehrhardt who was ill at the time. She joined the show in Seattle and has been with it since.

Mae's first appearance was a hit and, when Miss Ehrhardt returned, she continued her solo number. Shortly after Mae was signed, she was joined by her sister.

Birdie Tebbetts Accepts Detroit Salary Slash

NASHUA, N. H., Feb. 18 (AP)—George "Birdie" Tebbetts, Detroit catcher, said today he had signed his 1942 contract and was leaving immediately for the Tigers' training camp. The peppery backstop admitted he took a slight salary cut, but said his teammates were in for the same treatment.

2 Giant Hurlers Sign, But Others Scorn Terms

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 18 (AP)—The New York Giants announced today that pitchers Ace Adams and John Wittig had signed contracts.

Pitcher Bob Carpenter and Catcher Rae Blaemire, both dissatisfied with the terms offered, will be asked to come here for conferences.

War No Excues for Pay Slashes, Says MacPhail

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 18 (AP)—Free-handed Larry MacPhail, whose spending gave the Brooklyn Dodgers a National League pennant, can't see the war as an excuse for cutting baseball salaries.

While other clubs are reported tightening their purse strings in the face of the national emergency, MacPhail said Brooklyn players who earned salary raises will get them.

"When a ballplayer comes to me and starts talking about a contract," the executive continued, "he usually says he expects to have a big year.

"I always tell him, 'Brother, I put out on the basis of what you did last year.' I've said that all my life. The player knows it.

"I may expect him to have a good year, but I point out that if he does he'll benefit the following season.

"We had a good year. We won the pennant and we brought a lot of people into the ball park.

"We'd better get hurt now before we start crying too hard. It's up to us to give the players what they are due, and take a shot on taking in the money to pay them.

"What right have we to get panicky and start talking war in discussing terms?"

As the Dodger players gathered at Miami for a flight today to the Havana training camp, eight still had not signed contracts—but MacPhail declared the club was "in pretty good shape."

"The only one essential difference," he said, is in the case of Pitcher Whitlow Wyatt.

"Wyatt is the only fellow I expect to have any trouble with," MacPhail continued.

N. E. RACE RULES FACE DRASTIC CHANGES

Disqualified Horses May Stay in Money

By JACK CONWAY

Racing in New England took a long step forward when representatives of the Racing Commissions of Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Rhode Island at a special conference at the City Club made a tentative agreement for changes in the racing rules which will help the sport of kings in this section of the country.

The meeting was called on the invitations of Chairman Charles F. Connors and Commissioners Elmer Nelson and Harry Allen of the Massachusetts Racing Commission.

In addition to the members of the Massachusetts Commission the conference was attended by Chairman George Conway and Commissioners Charles Allen and Edward Maley of the New Hampshire Racing Commission, Raymond McElroy and Steward Hap Fenelon of the Rhode Island Racing Commission's staff.

Guests at the meeting were Charles F. Adams, president of Suffolk Downs, Lou Smith of Rockingham Park, John R. Macomber, famous sportsmen and owner of a racing stable, James H. Dooley, Narragansett Park and Billy Almy, steward at Suffolk Downs and Rockingham Park.

Secretary Larry Lane of the Massachusetts Racing Commission was secretary of the meeting.

DISQUALIFICATION RULE

It was agreed that the following changes would be made in the racing rules in the aid of uniformity and better racing:

1—In the event there is a ruling of a foul, the stewards may leave the horse committing the foul in the money provided he is not placed ahead of any horse with which he interfered.

The jockey guilty of an infraction shall be penalized severely.

In many cases of a foul, two horses are well out in front of the remainder of the field. One horse is then found guilty of a foul. Instead of being placed at the end of the field the stewards under the proposed change in the rule may move the horse committing the foul to second place. In the event the horse guilty of the foul interfered with two horses, he can be placed third as happened recently with Hasty Wire in Florida.

In the opinion of Chairman Charles F. Connors of the Massachusetts Racing Commission, this change in the rules will protect the place and show bettors.

"It is only a matter of a year or two before this rule will be adopted by every racing commission in the United States," declared President Adams of Suffolk Downs.

UNIFORM RULES

2—That there be uniform racing rules in New England much like there are uniform baseball and football rules. It is planned for representatives of the three New England commissions to meet and draft rules so that rule 1 and 10 in Massachusetts will also be rules 1 and 10 in Rhode Island and in New Hampshire.

"I believe by having the same rules and the same wording of our rules that we shall eliminate some of the confusion now existing," said Commissioner Harry Allen. "Baseball, football and most other major sports operate under the same rules no matter where the games are played. Having the various chapters and the wording of the rules the same it will help racing."

3—Jockey agents must have at least three riders, one of whom may be an apprentice, under their direction.

"This rule will eliminate agents with only one jockey," said Commissioner Elmer Nelson. "It will put the jockeys under the control of established agents."

Under this rule, the stewards will have the authority to permit agents to handle more than three jockeys.

"When an agent has only one rider, he cannot get a living handling his affairs," said Billy Almy. "I do not believe racing benefits from such a condition. It is better that those agents who have several riders be encouraged as they usually work for the best interests of racing."

N. H. SAFEGUARDS RACING

Chairman Conway and Commissioners Allen and Maley of New Hampshire explained the many safeguards that are thrown around the saliva tests in New Hampshire.

"We have two or three inspectors check everything in addition to the

Mack Optimistic On Eve of Departure

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 18 (INS)—Embarked upon his 56th year in organized baseball, Connie Mack today looked forward to the 1942 season with optimism backed by the "play ball" edict of the nation's No. 1 fan—Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"Worry about the future of the game during the war?" asked Connie in surprise. "Why should help uplift the morale of the United States has asked us to help uplift the morel of the American people as a patriotic duty? No, we're going right ahead—make that clear."

The veteran Athletics' manager believes, in fact, that the prospects of baseball in 1942 are better than in 1917, because "the government in those days wasn't in favor of wartime sports, and now they're just as anxious as we are to preserve the status quo."

MACK HOLDS REINS

At 79, the sage of Shibe Park handles the daily burdensome task of running a big league baseball club with the briskness and mental agility of a young man. Sports writers long ago abandoned the routine question: "When are you going to retire, Connie?" He doesn't like it.

"Of course, the war presents problems," reminded the septuagenarian," but in line with the President's suggestion we're counting heavily on night ball to lift our attendance. We also look to Sunday double-headers as a source of increased revenue."

Connie vetoed a proposal in some quarters that night games be started at 8 p. m., when father, mother and the children could attend together and still arrive home in time for all to get a good night's sleep. He explained that visibility was too poor at that twilight hour for good baseball—lights or no lights.

Besides foreseeing a "pretty good" financial season, the tall tactician predicts a "fine pennant race and a close one." It may turn out to be a nip-and-tuck fight to the finish between the New York Yankees and the Chicago White Sox, he thinks.

DYKES TEAM STRONG

"The Yanks have lost only first-baseman Johnny Sturm to the draft, explained Mack. "They will be as tough as ever. But Chicago under Jimmy Dykes has a strong, well-balanced team which should press the New Yorkers.

"My long shot for the year would be the St. Louis Browns," disclosed Connie. "They have several good players, and if the St. Louis fans would support the team and encourage the men, the Browns should make a surprise showing."

Teams hardest hit by the draft, Mack said, are the Boston Red Sox, Cleveland and Detroit—while Washington will be without Cecil Travis and Buddy Lewis. The Athletics have lost nine players—and that's a lot to a cellar team, but "we'll patch together a pretty fair outfit," said Mack—still the optimist.

'41 N. E. Champ To Box in Last Diamond Trial

Final chance for N. E. ringmen to gain a berth in the windup of the Diamond Ring tourney comes on Monday night at the Arena, when the Irish-American Club stages the fourth and final elimination bouts.

Bouts are billed in eight classes, 112 pounders to heavyweights. All entries must be made in writing and filed with Tom Kanaly at the Arena.

Monday winners, in addition to first-place boys in the three previous tryouts clash in the finals at the Arena on March 2.

Latest entries to arrive are: Walter Kljanka, Lowell, and Steve Peletino, Cambridge, 112s; Tony DeGregorio, Boston, last year's New England champion, and Louis Ariello, East Boston, 118s; Joe Monteiro, Wareham, 126s; Don O'Brien, North Reading, and Johnnie Rizzo, East Boston, 135s; Edward Barnes, Saugus, 147s; John Potente, Worcester, 175s; and Mike Ukraine, Boston, and Anthony Bonamo, Malden, heavyweights.

Consider Frnka For Eli Post

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 18 (INS)—Henry Frnka, football coach at the University of Tulsa, Okla., today was officially reported to be under serious consideration for the job of head football mentor at Yale University.

A Yale alumnus close to the school's advisory committee said Frnka will be sounded out within the next few days. Frnka went to the Oklahoma institution as head tutor last year after coaching the backs and ends at Temple University under Ray Morrison.

Also being scouted for the Yale post, the alumnus said, are Clipper Smith, Villanova, and Hook Mylan, Lafayette. Previously, Stanford Coach Clark Shaughnessy was said to be first in line for the position.

Yanks, Good-Wins Battle in Roxbury

The Harlem Colored Yankees of New York and the Boston Good-Wins will clash again at Roxbury Memorial high school gym tonight, with the undefeated Harvard Medical School and Malden City Club prying off the lid at 8 o'clock.

The Good-Wins lost their last game with Harlem. The addition of Lou Belanger strengthens the Good-Wins materially so that with Herbie Brenner, Walter Perry, Ed Krause and Belanger, the Good-Wins will present their fastest lineup of the past two seasons.

N. E. RACING FACES MANY RULE CHANGES

taking of the test by our veterinarian," said Chairman Conway. "We change our inspectors from time to time. We believe that we have made our tests as fool proof as possible."

Commr. Nelson of Massachusetts brought up the question of show betting on five-horse fields. He stated he felt there should be a uniform practice on this matter.

"At Suffolk Downs last season there was show betting on some five-horse fields and none on others," said Commr. Nelson.

"When there was no show betting," said President Adams, "it was because there were two or three standout horses in a race. In our eagerness to bring the best in racing to Suffolk Downs, we have secured in the past a number of high-priced horses. Two or sometimes three of these horses would start in the same race, and one could not give maybe two horses much of a chance.

"The professional show bettor objected when we cancelled show betting on this type of racing, but the average $2 bettor was not concerned as he usually bet at least that his horse would place. We also found that after one of these races with no show betting there was a big increase in wagering in the next race."

AGREEMENT ON BETTING

Commissioner Nelson felt that in the interest of the public there should be a uniform practice in these cases, and President Adams stated he would make an agreement with the Massachusetts Racing Commission that there would not be any show betting in five horse races at Suffolk Downs.

Lou Smith declared he usually had show betting on five horse races at Rockingham Park. It was agreed that this matter could be adjusted between the various tracks and racing commissions.

Raymond McAlroy of the Rhode Island commission's staff told of the safeguards observed in taking the saliva tests. He also explained the effective work done by the 18 inspectors employed by the Rhode Island Racing Commission last

John R. Macomber aproved of the agreements made by the representatives of the racing commissions and due to his vast experience in racing he was able to tell how many of them would work out for the benefit of the sport.

Hap Fenelon and Billy Almy made suggestions which would enable the stewards to enforce the proposed changes in the rules.

It was the first time in the history of New England racing that there has been such a meeting, and it is certain to prove helpful. New England intends to retain its strong position in racing, and uniform and improved rules will help this situation.

Chairman Connors of the Massachusetts Racing Commission expressed satisfaction with the excellent co-operation he received from representatives of the other commissions.

"We are all anxious to do what we can to help racing," said Chairman Connors. "With the various Commissions, track owners and officials co-operating we shall make progress in racing in New England."

Chairman Connors and Commissioners Nelson and Allen acted as hosts at the luncheon that was held before the conference.

R. I. Hoop Star Hit 'Jackpot' Despite Deflation System

By BILL GRIMES

Now that Stanley "Stutz" Modzelewski of Rhode Island State has shattered the four-year basketball scoring mark which Hank Luisetti established while playing for Stanford University, Coach Frank Keaney of the Rams will be more affable than he has been since the sport pages started to publicize the possibility of a new record by the Rams' star.

"Naturally, I'm delighted that 'Stutz' is the highest scorer in the history of intercollegiate basketball," declared Keaney, "but, to be frank, I don't cotton to individual accomplishments in basketball.

"Contrary to the general opinion of experts," continued the Rams' mentor, "we haven't a great team this year.

"We play a far different type of basketball than do most colleges and universities. We gamble that we can out-score the other clubs. And, although we've done pretty well, I didn't take kindly to those two defeats on our schedule.

"Coaching the type of basketball we play at R. I. is a tough assignment. Don't let anyone tell you that old dogs can't be taught new tricks.

DEFLATION FIRST STEP

"Since R. I. State moved into the national basketball picture, prep school stars have trekked down to Kingston and matriculated. They arrived armed with their 'writeups.'

"I've made it a practice to allow my freshman squads to coach themselves for the first few weeks they are out.

"Usually, freshmen are of the opinion that they know all that there is to know about basketball when they come to college. Of course, there are a few exceptions, and whenever a boy asks to be enlightened, I always take him in hand.

"Just before the start of the varsity season, I stage a game with the freshmen, who, by that time, would tell me how the game should be played if I'd listen.

"Deflation is the first step. So, before I send the teams into action I address the freshmen as follows: 'Just as soon as the varsity scores 100 points, the game will be over.' You should see the expressions on the faces of those freshmen. If looks could kill I'd have been a dead pigeon years ago.

"Of course the varsity players, all of whom have experienced the humiliation the freshmen are about to suffer, realize that they are to pour it on and keep pouring until they've popped in 100 points. Up to now my varsity teams have never missed their objective.

NO STANDING ROOM

"After those annual varsity-freshman games, I begin to give some time to the youngsters. But, I make them come to me. I'm the boss and I make them realize that fact. The last to fall in line are former high and prep school stars. And, I've a stock expression for them, 'So you want to learn how the game is played at Rhode Island, hey?' Then, I take them out on the court, one at a time, and give them a going over. I've a few tricks, which I've managed to perfect, that they've never seen or heard of and when they fail to beat me, they are cured of their ego. And, the major portion of my troubles are over.

"Come down to Kingston some night the Rams are playing," concluded Keaney, "and learn for yourself what a hold basketball has on that community. Why every seat and inch of standing room is filled more than an hour and a half before game time. We really give the fans a show and, mister, they love it."

Wilson's Eager To Prove Right To Title by K.O.

Jackie Wilson, Pittsburgh, featherweight champion of the world, will be shooting for a knock-out victory over Abe Denner, West End, in their 10-round non-title bout in the Boston Boxing Association feature next Friday night at Mechanics Building.

This will be Wilson's first start since he punched his way to the 126-pound crown last October over Ritchie Lemos and he wants to impress the experts that he's a genuine champion. Furthermore he regards Denner as too dangerous and that he will do well to get rid of him rapidly.

Denner has a world of stamina, boxing ability and a punch, and Wilson will be menaced as long as Denner is on his feet. Able Abie regards this fight as the most important of his career and steps into it in superb condition. If he wins over Wilson Friday night, he's been promised a return bout in which the title will be involved.

Leo Dulmaine, Marlboro, will meet up with Young Byron, Roxbury, in the 8-round semi-final while a special six will find Larry Pacino and Jackie Caparell clashing for the middleweight championship of Roxbury. In another six, Sal Cesario, North End, faces slugging Sam Shumway, Webster. Two fours will be added to the card.

Boston Girl Skater In Chicago Tourney

CHICAGO, Feb. 18 (AP)—The nation's figure skaters began converging upon Chicago today for the 1942 national championships which will begin in the Arena tomorrow and continue through Saturday. Nineteen titles will be at stake.

Already on hand were such leading women performers as Ramona Aller, 14-year-old Pacific coast champion from Oakland, Cal.; 13-year-old Dorothy Goos, eastern senior champion from New York, and 17-year-old Roberta Jenks of Boston, runner-up for the 1941 national junior title.

Casey Tackles Indian at Arena

Two main bouts will feature the weekly wrestling program at the Arena tonight with Sgt. Steve "Crusher" Casey battling Chief Osley Saunooke in the first and Lee Hanning tackling Wladyslau Talun in the other.

Casey, former world's champion, will be trying to take another step towards a shot at the title while still wearing the khaki of Uncle Sam.

The Crusher will have his hands full in Saunooke because the Indian has developed a "bad" man streak. Casey will depend on his famous Kerry Flip to gain the victory.

Tokle to Seek Title At Vermont Meet

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

The man who flies through the air with the greatest of ease, Torger Tokle, has filed his intention of competing in the national jumping championships that the Brattleboro Outing Club is holding on Washington's Birthday at Brattleboro, Vt.

TITLE BOUND—Torger Tokle prepares his slats for an assault on the national jumping championships at Brattleboro, Vt., on Washington's Birthday.

Modest hero of all junior skiers is the great Torger, who holds the record on every major jumping hill in America. He has collected enough silver plate to fill a store window, and in two short seasons, he has become an almost legendary character, a figure of national importance.

This wearer of the winged boards is one of the very few skiers who has won a second leg on the internationally famous "Winged Ski Trophy" of the Brattleboro Outing Club. This prize, designed by Cartier in 1923, is the largest in the ski world and its quality is in keeping with its size.

LOOKS LIKE TOKLE'S TROPHY

The great Norwegian, Birger Ruud, as well as a long string of American champions, have succeeded in capturing one of the three legs necessary for permanent possession. Nevertheless, from this vantage point, it looks as if the "mighty mite" from the Norway Ski Club may be the final owner, and that this winter he will carry the coveted cup back to Noroton.

The fact remains, however, that Torger can be beaten. We did not think so last year, but this season he has already been upset twice by a Norwegian refugee who competes under the name "Ola." Two weeks ago at Duluth, Minnesota, "Ola" defeated him in the Class A championship. In second place was little Art Devlin of Lake Placid, N. Y., with Tokle third. Art has also entered the Battleboro meet, and this may be the day for this stylist.

Torger's setbacks this season have been scored on form, because at all meets he has made the longest leaps. Scoring in jumping contests is complicated, and ofttimes the best man does not always win.

ENGEN IN RUNNING

Star of the local club is "Mezzy" Barber, who can likewise shade Torger when it comes to style. He will be jumping on his own hill, which is a definite advantage.

Another chap who will be in the thick of the competition is Alf Engen. His soaring skis outdid Torger's in the national championships in 1940. Torger beat him in the same event last year. Those are almost the only times that these two champions have appeared on the same hill on the same day. They will meet again next Sunday, and their ski tips will point skyward in a duel that should make skiing history.

Conditions at this writing find the 65-meter hill in excellent shape. A crew has been working on the terrain and packing the snow all week. Everything is ready for a day of thrills and spills.

EIGHT DEDHAM PLAYERS MAKE 'ALL' ICE SQUAD

The Eastern Massachusetts All-Star team, picked by the coaches Monday, with Thomas Hines, president of the circuit, will play a team representing the Bay State League next Monday afternoon at the Arena. The Easetrn "all" team is presented here today.

Wakefield, winner of the league crown in its first year of competition, along with Dedham and Natick, which deadlocked for second place, monopolized the choices with 22 players of the 32 that make up the squad.

Dedham led the pack with eight. The two other schools each had seven.

THREE SCHOOLS FAIL

Three schools failed to be represented on the first squad, but all teams of the league have players on the second.

Brookline, Somerville and Lexington failed to place a member, while Malden, which registered only two ties all season, managed to have one member make the first club.

The second team will play a similar team of the Bay State League also on the same program on the Holiday.

TWO COACHES FOR SECONDS

Bob Davidson, Dedham and Dick Videto, Hudson, are the only repeaters from last year's team which gained a decision over both the Greater Boston and Bay State aggregations.

Frankie Dinan, Wakefield's coach, will handle the first team, and Nick DiSalvo, Dedham's mentor, and George McManus, Natick, the two teams that shared second place honors, have been selected to handle the second club.

FIRST TEAM

Goalies — Wendell Vidito, Wakefield; Dana Winner, Dedham. Defensemen — Bob Davidson and Frank Houston, Dedham; Lawrence Lapham, Malden; Stanley MacPherson, Natick; Charles MacDonald, Wakefield. Forwards—Joe Ciarnota, Earl Richardson and Bill Cullen, Wakefield; Frank Micelle and Norman Clancy, Natick; Bill Jones and Bob McDonough, Dedham; Arnold Figueira and Richard Videto, Hudson.

SECOND TEAM

Goalies—Joe Quinn, Dedham; Norman Daily, Lexington. Defensemen—Dick McLaughlin, Brookline; James Melanson, Wakefield; Dave Lampson, Hudson; Bob O'Connell, Natick; Don Fay, Dedham. Forwards—Al Aylward and James Gastani, Dedham; Mel Freedman and Larry Dolph, Natick; Bob Ryan and Tom Kirby, Brookline; Bill Kenny, Lexington; Tom Molloy, Somerville; Burton Strong, Wakefield.

ANGOTT CLEAR OF CHARGE

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 18 (AP)—Sammy Angott, lightweight boxing champion, was released early today after he had been detained several hours for questioning about his association with two men charged with the $7537 robbery of the Stanley Theater here Monday.

Inspector of Detectives Walter Monaghan said he was "convinced" Angott had no connection" with the robbery and Police Capt. Frank T. McQuaide added that the Washington, Pa., fighter was "apparently the victim of a series of circumstances."

McQuaide said Angott was questioned because the two suspects, booked as Vincent DeLucia, 48, and Freddie Bucknell, alias Brownell, both of New York, told Monaghan that Angott had driven them in his car Monday from Pittsburgh to Washington, where they took a bus to Akron, O.

The two were apprehended in Akron after a woman compained they had annoyed her. Akron police said they found $3427 cash in their luggage.

McQuaide said Angott told him he had met DeLucia and Bucknell in New York last December through his manager, Charles Jones.

DODDS SHIFTS TO MILE AFTER NEXT RICE DUEL

By HERB FINNEGAN

The world two-mile record of 8:51.1, which escaped the axe by a whisker at the B. A. A. games, seems certain to go when Greg Rice and Gilbert Dodds stage their third duel at the New York A. C. games Saturday.

Dodds will be keyed mentally for the New York test. He wasn't here. It was stage fright more than anything else which led him to crack at the Garden.

He had an 8:50 two-mile effort in his system, Coach Jack Ryder declared last Friday, and he still has it, Ryder said today. It's just a question of him getting it out.

That terrific buildup he received in the press last week didn't help. The new two-mile phenomenon acted as if he were carrying the weight of the world on his shoulders, and he ran that way. A high strung chap, he worried lest he let his coach and Boston admirers down, and it affected his running. Consequently he did let them down.

RICE'S TRIBUTE

But he's just as full of running as Mr. Rice as he proved in the Millrose games two weeks back, and may prove it in New York where he won't have so much on his mind as he did here. One reason he'll go "all out" Saturday is because he'll switch to the mile next week. So this is his last chance to square himself.

Nobody appreciates Dodds' great running ability any more than Rice. After the B. A. A. race, which he won by 50 yards with apparent ease, the little Montanan declared:

"One of the hardest races I ever had in my life. He (Dodds) was smart and well coached. He ran a perfectly judged race. Lacking my sprint at the finish, he poured it on in the third half mile. (Just as Jole Ray used to break his rivals' hearts in the third quarter of a mile race.)

"I knew he was trying to pile up a lead, and that's why I clung to him so doggedly. It was either he or I, and it just happened to be my night. But don't let anybody tell you he wasn't great out there."

Rice is the marvel of the ages. Track savants actually expected Dodds to whip the 137-pounder with the 120-pound heart, mainly because Rice had run an 8:59 two-mile in Philadelphia the night before.

Dodds, meanwhile, had enjoyed a day of rest, and he was better trained than he had been at Millrose where Rice had great difficulty beating him in 8:52.

Experience, however counts for much on a board track. Rice has it, Dodds hasn't. Had not the V. F. W. and K. of C. cancelled their meets, Dodds would have had two more races behind him, and would have been better prepared to cope with Rice.

One learns to run by running.

ABOUT DARTMOUTH

Dartmouth wants Rice to compete there in March and put the two-mile record down where Cunningham put the mile (4:04.4). But Rice isn't enthusiastic about it.

"I need competition to be at my best," he said here "I have an excess of nervous energy, and competition helps me get rid of it. I never was good at paced running. I haven't refused to run at Dartmouth, of course, but I won't commit myself because the season still has some way to go yet."

Perhaps Rice won't need the Dartmouth track to put the two-mile mark at a new low. He did 8:52.2 here last week on feet so blistered it took five minutes to get rid of the tape after the race. And he had had only two workouts all week because of those feet.

With Dodds himself again next Saturday and Rice enjoying a full week's rest, the little chap with the big chest may have to get under his own world record of 8:51.1 to win.

Failing that he seems to be a cinch to turn the trick at the New York K. of C. games next month when he will meet MacMitchell as well as Dodds at the distance.

Boston has seen the last of popular Joe McCluskey. The former Fordham champion is awaiting a call from the Navy and expects to be inducted any day . . . McCluskey has been running in the big time since 1929 when he and Gene Venzke made their debut in the K. of C. mile here . . . McCluskey has won 25 national championships since that distant day, and apparently is running as well as ever . . . "Did a 4:14 mile just before Millrose," said the bald-pated veteran. "Then came down with a severe cold." But Joe did 9:15 at Millrose and 9:11 at the B. A. A. meet. Old as he is, he would be a headliner if the Lashes, the Rices and the Doddses hadn't burst into the limelight of late.

Bruins Held To 5-5 Tie By Krauts

Special to Boston Evening American

OTTAWA, Feb. 18—The Bruins renewed acquaintance with the erstwhile Kraut line of Milt Schmidt, Woody Dumart and Bobby Bauer, who are now members of the Royal Canadian Air Force, in an exhibition game here that wound up in a 5-to-5 deadlock.

Overcoming a four-goal rally by the Bruins in the closing seconds of the game, the Flyers, members of the Ottawa Senior Amateur League, fought back to a tie, with Schmidt whirling the length of the ice to beat Frankie Brimsek with a deadly backhand shot.

GET TROPHY REPLICAS

The largest crowd ever to witness an exhibition game in Ottawa, 7604 paid, packed the rink to capacity and poured more than $4000 into the charity fund of the R. C. A. F. Benevolent Association.

The attraction was the world champion Bruins—and the Krauts, who were presented replicas of the Lady Dufresne Trophy by Art Ross in colorful pre-game ceremonies.

Schmidt also scored earlier in the game to give the Flyers a 2-1 lead half way through the second period on a pass from Bobby Bauer, who also started Milt on his spectacular rush which tied the game up with only 32 seconds to go.

SCHMIDT'S CLIMAX SHOT

Trailing, 3-1 going into the final period, the Bruins tied it up as Jack McGill connected twice in six minutes.

Lloyd Gronsdal put them in front and Eddie Wiseman sank his second goal of the game to put the Bruins ahead, 5-3.

A solo by Forward Mike Miller cut the Bruins lead in half and set the stage for Schmidt's brilliant end to end rush.

15-Foot Fall Easier To Take Than 12, Claims Warmerdam

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP)—How would you like to fall 15 feet onto a spoonful of sawdust?

Cornelius Warmerdam, the scientific Dutchman from California who makes a habit of pole vaulting into the sub-stratosphere, says a drop from that height is much easier and "softer" than one from 12 feet.

"Those extra three feet of falling space give me a chance to unscramble my legs. I've also got time to relax and gather myself for the impact. The jar is harder in a 12-foot fall because I land all in a heap."

Doerr's Coffee Could Stand a Little Sugar

Both the Red Sox and the Braves have agreed to admit service men free of charge to ball games at Braves Field every day during the season, including Sundays and holidays. Tickets will be placed in the hands of morale officers in Army, Navy and Marines. These officers have agreed to fix the number of tickets they will require, and their requests will be honored without question.

The only restriction which will be made by the Boston clubs is one requested by the morale officer of the First Corps Area. That is that no service man will be admitted unless he has a ticket furnished by that office.

It is the most important contribution toward the morale effort by any major league club or clubs since the outbreak of war. It is in line with the President's request that baseball do all in its power to promote civilian morale. It may be that many a young service man will become infected with the baseball virus, and wind up in the majors eventually.

Bobby Doerr apparently is holding out, just as he did a year ago. He had a marvelous year in 1940, batting .291, hitting 22 home runs and knocking in 107 runs. He figured he deserved a raise, and was keenly disappointed when he didn't get one. As a result he started the season in a none-too-happy frame of mind. He did well, all things considered, batting .281, getting 16 home runs and driving in 93 runs, but that was a general drop-off all things considered, because he would have been enjoying his greatest season. Let's hope the Sox put some sugar in his coffee this year. He's one man who must come through if the Sox are to figure in the race.

Jim Tabor, anxious to make this his best year, will leave for Sarasota next Sunday morning to get in 10 days of intensive training before the rest of the infielders report. Assistant Trainer Johnny Orlando will accompany the big Sox third sacker, who wintered in Boston . . . Still no word from Ted Williams. The Sox would like to know his draft classification, because their plans depend greatly on whether he plays or does not play . . . If he doesn't, you can bet either Cronin or Foxx will see Garden duty because Dom DiMaggio, Pete Fox and Lou Finney won't supply the punch the Sox have been used to getting from their outfield.

Bill Conroy, catcher drafted from Oakland, will celebrate his 26th birthday one week from tomorrow. He is reputed to be a smart handler of pitchers and a long, though inconsistent hitter. There is a good chance he will cop the No. 1 receiving berth with the Sox because their pitching, as always, can stand improvement . . . Ulysses Lupien, regular Red Sox first sacker unless Jimmy Foxx decrees otherwise, has thrown up his job in that Waterford service station, and is taking it easy until the Sox move southward . . . Lupe has been officiating at basketball games throughout the winter, and he'll need little work at Sarasota to get his legs in trim . . . He's fast, is Lupe and a grand competitor.

Illness Forces Trosky to Quit

DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 18 (AP)—Hal Trosky, 29-year-old slugging first baseman for the Cleveland Indians, said he has asked to be placed on the voluntarily retired list "indefinitely," the Des Moines Register said in a copyrighted story today.

He said his action was motivated by migraine headaches from which he has been suffering for some time and which forced him to leave the Cleveland baseball club near the end of last season.

Trosky broke into professional baseball with Cedar Rapids of the Mississippi valley loop in 1931 as a pitcher. He later shifted to the outfield and then first base.

He has been with the Cleveland club nine years and has a major league batting average of .314.

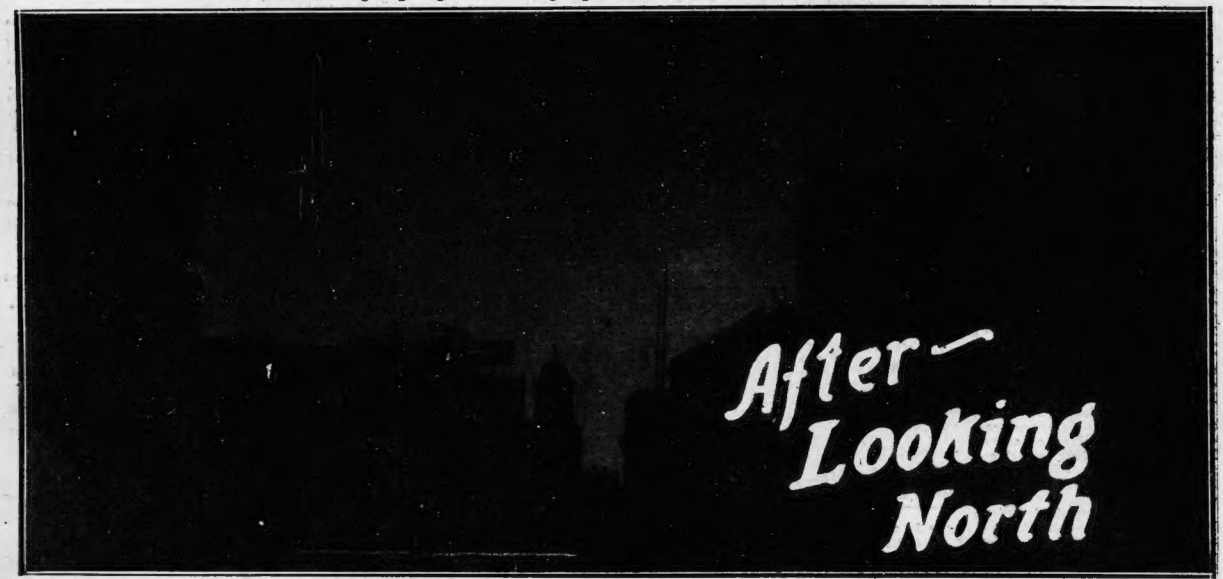
Boston's Brightly Lighted Scollay Sq. . . . Before the City's First Blackout Test



Brilliance Eclipsed—Facing each other from opposite ends of Boston's Scollay sq., two Boston American cameramen went into action just before and after the city's first blackout test . . . and attained these results. The brilliance that lit up one of the Hub's busiest sections a few minutes before blackout time was completely gone (bottom photo) with the exception of the beam (jagged line) from a walking air raid warden's flashlight. STORY ON PAGE 3.
